RESULT OF STRIKE

WASHINGTON—(United Press)
—Public ownership of all God's monopolies—coal, oil, gas and water power—is included in a legislative program now being worked out by Senator Borah, Idaho, chairman of the senate labor committee, he announced Saturday night.The coal strike may cause Borah to lay his program before congress earlier than he intended. In any event, he believes the strike will create public sentiment for such a program by showing that it is the inevitable solution, unless those now controlling natural resources themselves institute reforms.Other developments as the government took up its policy of "watchful waiting" on the first day of the strike were:

C. S. STRIKE POLICY

Secretary of War Weeks issued a statement that federal troops will be called in connection with the coal strike only in the gravest emergency.The department of justice established a watch for any cases of coal profiteering as result of the strike.The house labor committee continued its hearing on the coal strike with Alfred M. Ogle, of Terre Haute, vice-president of the National Coal association, as a witness.Attorney General Daugherty had prepared a statement of the government policy in the strike, but did not issue it.

WEEKS' STATEMENT

The war department has no reason to believe the strike situation will become so grave that the use of troops will become necessary, but should serious trouble come, it will be up to the governors to call on their national guard units. The government troops would act only in case of the gravest emergency.Ogle before the house labor committee, insisted in the fact of a continual fire of questions, that the operators' contract with the miners, which included a provision for a general meeting before April 1 had been abrogated by the miners at the Cleveland conference in September, 1921.John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, appears before the committee Monday and is expected to vigorously deny Ogle's contentions.

INDIANAPOLIS—(United Press)

—The nation began eating into its $5,000,000 ton coal reserve Saturday, while more than half a million miners struck, closing up 6,000 mines.Official estimates say the reserve will carry industries and utilities for a period of more than two months if domestic consumption is reduced by warm weather."Nearly 2,000,000 tons are already gone," declared John A. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and held marshal of the striking at headquarters here Saturday night.Daily consumption during the winter slightly exceeds 1,500,000 tons.

WILL REMAIN FIRM

Lima miners dropped their picks in 20 states, Lewis claimed, and thousands of unorganized workers joined them. Miners in both union and non-union shops have not worked on April 1, since 1898, when the eight-hour day was inaugurated and the effectiveness of the strike will not be definitely known before Monday morning.There is no doubt that they will respond to a man," Lewis declared.
He said the miners will not return to work until mine owners withdraw from their determined stand against meeting union representatives in interstate conference as provided by the agreement which expired Friday midnight.Despite the April 1 holiday, 1,500 miners in the open shop regions worked at full speed Saturday, according to reports to union headquarters. They will produce between three and four million tons a week during the strike, and that will make it unnecessary to draw upon the reserve to a great extent.

FEDERAL WAR COUNCIL

Lewis and Secretary-Treasurer William E. Green were in final "war council" late Saturday. They agreed on a plan by which the strike could be ended, however, and Lewis left at 5:40 o'clock for Washington where he will tell the miners' story Monday to the congressional committees investigating the suspension.
Green left for his home in Cosho-cota, Ohio.Both declared the miners will not need a leader in the fight. They said the men were inspired by the of the executive committee named to prosecute a campaign for the funding of the Social Service bureau work in Lima. Lima Lodge of Elks headed the list of donors to the fund with a pledge of $5,000.Announcement of the appointment of Beall as chairman was made Saturday night by a committee of members of the Chamber of Commerce, designated for that purpose, comprising Glen C. Webb, C. A. Hatt, H. O. Bentley and Frank Cunningham.

COMMITTEE PERSONNEL

Other members of the executive committee announced are as follows:
John E. Galvin, president of the Ohio Steel Foundry Co., vice chairman; H. G. Wemmer, of the De-Wemmer Co.; William J. J. Rasmussen, president of the East Iron & Machine Co.; William L. Reid, vice president of the Lima Locomotive Works; E. R. Curtin, president and general manager of the Lima Natural Gas Co.; H. O. Bentley, attorney; J. G. Neubauer, president of the Silar Refining Co.; George S.
Vicary, of the Star Iron Works.A meeting of the above named committee is to be held Monday, for the purpose of planning its campaign to create a fund of from $25,000 to $50,000, to wipe out an indebtedness of more than $10,000 incurred by the Social Service bureau, in aiding Lima unemployed thru a period of depression, and to insure continuation of relief.The work of the Social Service Bureau is under the direction of Mrs. Irene Mills Jackson. The movement intended to create necessary funds was inaugurated at a mass meeting of citizens, representatives of various organizations, held recently at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, after Mrs. Jackson ina complete resume of her work, demonstrated the need of funds to carry on the work of relief and discharge obligations that have been incurred.For the most part, the money expended has been in the form of aid offsetting amounts called for on work slips. Able-bodied men have labored for the city, being paid at the rate of $2.80 per day. The municipal relief fund is now exhausted.
DONATIONS ARE RECEIVEDChecks in various amounts have been received by Mrs. Jackson since the movement began to tide over until a general campaign can be prosecuted, but the amount has been inadequate to keep the work moving and as a consequence there has been increased suffering among the needy of the city. Checks in goodly amounts were sent in Saturday by members of the executive committee.The outstanding feature of this organized plan to aid the Social Service bureau in its work of affording relief to the members of families of the unemployed, is the action of Lima Lodge of Elks, announced Saturday by C. A. Hatt, J. W. Beall and J. H. Callahan, a committee given full authority by the lodge to act in the matter of extending aid to the Social Service bureau.By unanimous action of the committee, with the hearty approval of Exalted Ruler J. B. Kaufman and other members of the lodge called in consultation, it was decided to head the list of donors with the sum of $5,000, in the name of Lima Lodge of Elks.Within the past nine months, the Elks have voted to donate to charity a total of $9,000. The sum of $4-000 was given from the lodge treasury for addition to the community chest, when that effort was occupying the attention of the public. The nearly 2,000 members of the lodge have been a unit in authorizing the extending of aid to the needy.It is not intended, it is stated, to institute a general canvass of the city in behalf of the Social Service bureau fund. Only organizations and individuals who are well able financially to make generous donations are to be approached, members of the committee state.The situation in Lima, due to unemployment thruout the winter months is so serious," Chairman Beall said Saturday night, "that it is imperative an organized effort be made and made quickly for the purpose of securing funds."
Beall stated that the executive committee will hold its initial meeting Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

augurated in Lima, Saturday with a parade which passed thru the city streets during the afternoon.Colonel John Harley, city commissioner, headed the parade as grand marshal. A platoon of police officers, led by Captain Strick marching in military formation, came next.
Following the police were city officials in motor cars.Then came the old hook and ladder truck, from the fire department, and a score of marchers on foot bearing signs.Five pieces of fire equipment followed, with Chief John Mack leading, in the chief's car.The parade was wound up by freshly painted equipment belonging to the city street department.Vaughn C. Miller, director of public works and Claude Zartman, street superintendent, on horseback, headed this section.The clean-up committee were unable to secure the services of a band, but the procession attracted a considerable crowd, nevertheless.Sunday the campaign will be spoken of from the pulpits of Lima churches. Monday, every household in the city is asked to get busy and clear his front yard of a winter's accumulation of litter.A "swat the fly" campaign, designed to reduce the multitude of germ carriers to a minimum, will be a feature of the week. Lima Kiwanians are to distribute 12,000 fly

Five armed bandits Saturday night held up the Olmstead Dover Savings and Trust Bank at Berea, eight miles from Cleveland, kidnapped the watchman, and escaped with the contents of the safe.According to police, the five men drove up to the bank in a large four-ing car shortly before 9 o'clock.
Four piled their way in the front door and covered the night watchman, Wallace Ross, with revolvers.
They looted the safe which was open.Ross was gagged, thrown into the tonneau of the automobile and the car sped toward Cleveland. At the outskirts of the city, Ross was thrown out of the car. The bandits escaped.Police were unable to state the amount of money obtained by the bandits. It is believed the loot was large, however.Several squads of police and sheriffs were scouring the roads leading in and out of Cleveland for the bandits.

MILLS SHUT DOWN

500 Men Battle to Check Stream Thru Walls With SandbagsHELENA, Ark.—(United Press)—
—Five hundred men worked feverishly Saturday night to prevent a break in the levee at Old Town, ten miles south of here, where the flooded Mississippi river threatens to inundate thousands of acres of low lands.The high waters Saturday afternoon for the second time in two days washed away the crest of the levee at Old Town, but the wash was quickly stopped by a barrier of sand bags.Sweating and toiling, working in endless reliefs, the workers hammered pile after pile, building up a second line of defense between the threatened homes and the crumbling levee.

KEPT AT TASK

The flooded river beat against the antiquated walls of the original levee, now pouring over to sweep the toilers from their feet, now being thrust back as fresh sand bags were hurled into the breaches.By highfall a second stout levee had been nearly completed. But the workers were kept at their task, driven mercilessly by leaders to fight for the protection of the valuable farm lands beyond.Overflowing its bed at Old Town, the swollen Mississippi continued to rise. Its crest was at all times within a few inches of the levee's top."Sand boils" in the ancient walls opened the way for leaks at many points. The river was seeping thru from beneath, undermining the work of relief. Huge piles, hammered home by panting men, swayed at their foundations. The river was straining at its man-made bonds, threatening thousands of acres of farm lands and hundreds of homes with destruction.

MILLS SHUT DOWN

Once loosed, the waters would rush with an irresistible sweep over the little towns of Modoc, Elaine and Henrico.The heart of the Arkansas rice country might be inundated.Mills threatened by the rising waters have been shut down.Their workers have left for points of safety. Many farmers have ceased to plant crops, fearing the angry waters must inevitably destroy them.Inhabitants of the threatened district have been ordered away from the danger zone around the embankments. Guards have been posted along the Old Town levee.Saturday night there is apprehension in every home for 25 miles back of the point where the great contest between the ingenuity of man and the mighty river is being fought.

THOUSANDS FLEE

Should the river win it is impossible to estimate the extent of the damage. It would mean the loss of hundreds of homes, the destruction of farm machinery and live stock, with the probable loss of human life.Hundreds of families have refused to leave their homes.Thousands of refugees from the lowlands continue to pour into the surrounding towns as the back waters from the White, Cacheel, Anguille and St. Francis rivers continue to sweep over thousands of acres of farming lands.Lines of guards keep back the curious as engineers and workers wage their fight against the encroaching waters.

STUDENT MISSING

lice Saturday night were searching for William Volbrecht, North-western freshman of Hamilton, Ohio, who has been missing since March 31.It was believed at first young Volbrecht had gone home but Friday a card from his mother was received at his rooming house asking why her son did not write.Volbrecht is the second Northwestern student to disappear within the last six months. Shortly after the opening of school last fall, Leighton Mount, also a freshman, left school mysteriously and despite a nation-wide search, has not been found.

POLICE RULESOfficers Must Salute Superiors,
New Chief's OrderTraining, discipline and military courtesy were points emphasized by Chief of Police Thomas A. Lanker, in an introductory talk before members of the Lima police department.
Lanker spoke for approximately a quarter of an hour and made a favorable impression on the men who are to be under his command."I believe that he is a man who can say yes or no and mean it," declared a veteran officer, after the new chief had concluded his remarks.Lanker made it clear early in his talk that he is head of the force."If you have anything to take up," he said, "come to me direct and do not be running up to the city manager and to the commission."Another innovation which the new police head intends introducing here, he said, is that all police must salute their superior officers, just as if they were soldiers.No changes will be made in the department in the immediate future, Lanker indicated. A new page in the department's history has been turned and each man will be given a chance to prove himself.

COURTESY DEMANDED

Courtesy to the public is another matter Lanker laid particular stress upon.Treat a bootlegger with the same courtesy you would a banker," he told the police. "No matter who they are, they expect to be treated right."The members of the department and the new chief posed for a group picture in front of the station at the conclusion of his talk.13 FIRMS BID ON

WELFARE WORKERS WILL PRESENT PAGEANT

DEPICTS STORY OF WANDERINGS
OF AN ARTIST

Is Product of the Genius of an Ada Author, Mrs. Grace Rosser—Local Talent to Interpret the Various Characterizations in Delightful Offering

(By ROSEMARY CHRISTEN)

ONE of the most pretentious of the events arranged for the month of April will be the presentation of the pageant, "At the End of the Rainbow," at Memorial Hall, April 28th and 29th, under the auspices of the Allen County Child Welfare association.

The story was written and is being directed by Mrs. Grace Norman Rosser, of Ada. Mrs. Rosser was graduated from the Ohio Northern University in the Expression department in the Class of 1898. The School of Expression, Boston, presented her with the General Culture diploma in 1911 and the same year she received her diploma for gymnastics. In 1912 she received the Teachers' Diploma from the same school and during that year took outside work with two of the Seargent teachers. While teaching at the Maryland College for Women, Baltimore, Mrs. Rosser inaugurated the "Playground Teachers' Course" in that college and it continues to be a popular course with the girls, who enjoy doing social service work during the summer. Two terms were spent with Chalf, the Russian teacher of dancing, and the study of interpretive dancing led her to specialize in the study of pageantry.

"At the End of the Rainbow" was presented by Mrs. Rosser at the Martha Washington Seminary, Washington, D. C., last May.

The theme of the pageant centers in the wanderings of an artist, portrayed by Dale R. Marshall, who, guided by the Spirit of Spring, represented by Miss Margaret Williams, is taught a few of Mother Nature's lessons in flowers. The attractive costumes of the various countries, together with the artistic folk and interpretive dances add greatly to the beauty of the pageant.

The cast is as follows: Scene I. Dale R. Marshall, Shawn O'Nery, an artist, Margaret Williams, Spirit of Spring; Phyrne Dixon Leach, Mother Nature; Harry Wright, Sun God; June Lamb, Gertrude Adams, Madeline Buscher, Louise and Dorothy Ascher, Margaret Jervis, Virginia Borders and Miriam Morton, robins; Mary Dimond, Harriet Derck, Josephine Wolf, Elizabeth Pursell, Beatrice Boose, Marie Cantwell, Virginia Forrer and Lucile Garmhausen, raindrops; Mary and Louis Bedford, Egyptians; Esther D. Toy, Alene Williams, Vida Leona Fox, Virginia Mosher, Marie Bechtel and Mrs. Ralph Austin, Lotus flowers.

friend; J. D. Leonard Jr., Tosko, betrothed to Lenja; Blanche M. Shutt, Lenja, daughter of Tahir Mala; Lilian Lippincott, Nahir Hanum, her sister; Margaret Flavin, fortune teller; Mrs. Donald Mehahey, Mrs. Stanley Toy, Misses Abigail Sullivan, Vida Leona Fox, Esther D. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Do you believe in fairies?

Dorothy Simmons does! True, she is 19 years old, but nevertheless, the mystic little beings are an important part of her life.

For fairies are leading her to fame and fortune! The Sacramento grammar schools have just contracted Dorothy to paint fairy murals on the walls of rooms occupied by young pupils. Other schools around the country are showing an interest in the new idea.

"When I decided that there should be fairies in the schoolrooms and kindergartens I didn't expect anyone to agree with me," says Dorothy. "But the plan took hold right away."

"You've really got to believe in fairies to paint them. My pet fairy, which I originated myself, is the 'Happier fairy.' It's becoming quite popular."

Representatives from practically all the old well known families in Lima were in attendance at the March meeting of the Allen County Historical society at Memorial Hall, Friday evening. The association room was well filled with people anxious to hear N. W. Cunningham, of Bluffton, speak on the subject, "Faces I Have Known." The gifted speaker was in his happiest mood and said, "Personalities I have known" would be a better title for his talk as he remembered many things about people other than just their faces. He gave a life-like moving picture of men who have figured in the life of Lima since the days of the Civil War down to the last decade.

Miss Harriet Melvain, 67 W. Kibby-st., welcomed a group of guests at an attractive gathering, Thursday evening, announcing the engagement of Miss Leah Simmons to Harlan C. Fisher, both of this city.

The evening was enjoyed in luncheon. Miss Lena Sharp holding high score. At a late hour a delicious luncheon was served, at which time the announcement of the engagement was made known. Tiny bells, bearing the initials L. S. and H. F., were embedded in the blossoms of tulips in small flower pots. The marriage will take place April 15th. Miss Simmons is an employee at the Lima Telephone and Telegraph company.

Guests included Misses Leah Simmons, Lena Sharp, Geneva Grovdon, Marie Franklin, Ruth Melvain, Sara Hanna, Mildred Young, Katherine Melvain, Helen Ripley, Cleo White, Mrs. Bruce Soddors, Mrs. Stanley Skiles, Mrs. Doran Hammack and Mr. Orville McGinnis.

A pretty affair of the past week was an informal gathering given Thursday by Mrs. George Faure, of S. Jameson-av., in compliment to Mrs. Nana Worley Hughes, who leaves soon for Muskegon to visit with her son, Paul, and Mrs. Jewett, mother of Mrs. E. R. Foster, who is leaving soon for Omaha to make her future home.

The afternoon was delightfully whiled away in social chat and music. The hostess invited her guests to the dining room, where a dainty repast was served. A centerpiece of sweet peas graced the one large table, at which the guests were seated.

Those enjoying the afternoon were Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Jewett, Mrs. Harriet Mayo, Mrs. Matilda Moore, Mrs. S. A. Baxter, Mrs. R. D. Kahle, Mrs. Ida Gekeler, Mrs. Agnes Kemp, Mrs. Louis Sellars, Mrs. Kent W. Hughes, Mrs. R. B. Garretson and Mrs. Lee Faure.

The Elizabeth Circle of Market Street Presbyterian church will be the guests of their patroness, Mrs. E. C. Furnas, of 909 W. Market-st., Thursday at 4 p. m.

761,727 ADDED TO CHURCH ROLL

Membership Increase Shown by Census of 1921

METHODIST GROUP LEADS

Great Growth Recorded for the Salvation Army

NEW YORK — (United Press) — The church membership of the United States showed an increase of 761,727 in 1921, according to complete official figures to be printed in the Christian Herald, April 1. This census of the religious life of the United States was made by Rev. H. K. Carroll.

The gain is an excess over that of 1920, when the increase was 687,007 reported in 1920. The Christian Herald will say:

"Most of the denominations share in the increase. The Methodist group appears to have grown to the remarkable extent of nearly 300,000. Nearly a third of this, however, is credited to the Colored Methodist Episcopal church. The Presbyterian group advances by 62,449. It should be noted that the Welsh Calvinistic Church disappears from the list of separate bodies this year, having been merged in 1921 with the Northern Church."

"In the Baptist group the three large Baptist bodies, which are growing rapidly, are represented by the returns of 1920, for the reason that their statistical year is the calendar year and no figures for 1921 are available. The Free Baptist body no longer appears as a separate organization. It has been in the process of merging with the Northern Baptist Convention for several years and has now practically disappeared. If Baptist increases for 1921 were included the total of gains in 1921 would almost certainly reach $50,000."

purpose to "aspire to an American standard of living."

Green characterized as absurd the testimony of Alfred Ogile, Ferris, Ind., mine operator, who told the committee the operators of the central competitive field were not bound legally or morally to meet the union men.

He exhibited the original copy of the agreement between the two factions, which provided for an interstate meeting before March 31, 1922.

Neither the union, the operators or government was trying actively to bring about the strike. All factions apparently intended to let it continue for a few days at least before any action is taken.

Government agents were watching headquarters here, however, and Green said here would be no violence.

Green said the action of a hundred miners in signing a contract at Danville, Ill., was "all right" because it probably was taken to meet local conditions not affecting the mine war at large.

50,000 OUT IN OHIO
COLUMBUS — (United Press) — Union officials and Ohio operators settled down Saturday night to their controversy, which caused a shutdown in the state's mining industry, Saturday.

With 50,000 union workers out in Ohio, the first day of the strike passed without an overt act. Lee Hall and other union leaders joined the idle miners in celebrating the anniversary of the eight-hour law, with strike-making throughout the state.

The strike was one hundred per cent effective, with only pumps remaining on the job to prevent flooding of operations, according to reports received at union headquarters here, Saturday.

Many miners had been out of work for months, while owners for the last week, have been using their operations in preparation of the strike. The few miners remaining at work quietly dropped their tools and prepared for indefinite idleness last midnight.

A few non-union "wagon miners" in scattered sections continued producing small quantities of coal, but neither operators or union officials considered them menacing to their situation.

The tie-up found the public well prepared with a supply on hand estimated sufficient for at least 30 days. State institutions and public utilities reported they were well prepared to meet a long fight between the miners and employers.

WEST VIRGINIA SITUATION
CHARLESTON, W. Va. — (United Press) — With exception in the union coal fields, West Virginia mines Saturday produced above 100 per cent production, according to a statement issued here, Saturday night by Walter S. Cunningham, Huntington, secretary of the West Virginia Coal Association, which includes all West Virginia fields.

In the non-union fields, workers speeded up production to such an extent that they offset lack of production in the state union fields, Cunningham said.

Cunningham predicted that next week will see increased production in the union fields. He declared that decreased production Saturday was due first to the strike, second to the fact that Saturday was pay day, and third, that many miners laid off to celebrate Mitchell day.

According to a telegraphic message Saturday to Charles L. Cabell, president of the Kanawha Coal Operators' Association, from Secretary of Labor Davis, statements by Davis to the effect that failure of coal operators and miners to get together on a common footing to arrange a new wage schedule previous to the strike referred only to the central competitive field and not the outlying districts including the Kanawha field.

No reports of any trouble were received from any of the West Virginia fields, Saturday.

PITTSBURGH — (United Press) — Reports here Saturday night indicated that 75,000 coal miners in western Pennsylvania are on strike. Few non-union miners joined the walkout, however. Fayette-co., a strong non-union field, reported 500 men or less than two per cent idle, Saturday.

In eastern Ohio, 20,000 were out, but no additions reported from non-union ranks.

Parades were held in many parts of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, Saturday, quiet prevailing.

Want Stalks Where Means of Aiding Selves Is Unafforded

Suffering Intensified as Relief Funds Shrink

PATHTIC STORIES TOLD

Examples of Situation, Result of Unemployment

For years, Joe—that isn't his name—but it will do—worked steadily and saved. He is a foreigner, and is a worker, when work is to be had.

It was slow work. There were eight months to feed, but he managed to get along somehow and finally had enough to realize his life's ambition. He made the initial payment on a home of his own.

Then came unemployment and a long, long period of idleness. His wages stopped, he could no longer pay.

WANT STALKS IN HOME
Out of work for months he struggled on, forced to see his children go daily without sufficient food or decent clothing.

Now foreclosure of the mortgage on his home is threatened. His wife lies ill, unable to eat the coarse food upon which the family has subsisted for months.

In this plight, Joe appealed to the Social Service bureau for aid. He did not ask charity. What he wants is work, he told Miss Jane Lynch, assistant secretary. She is seeking a place for him, but can find none to date.

There are others who daily wait at the door of the bureau for some word of hope—crumbs from the tables of the more fortunate.

They are not all like Joe—some of them are not foreigners.

Saturday, the father of four little children sought aid. The man has been out of work a year. There is no food in the house. For a time work slips issued by the bureau kept bread on the table. But now, with the bureau facing financial straits, this aid has been cut off.

Another case told by Miss Lynch is that of an elderly man of refinement. He is really unable to do manual labor, but sought a chance to work on the streets, in exchange for a work slip. There are no near relatives and the wife is too aged to work, even if it could be secured.

A father, who has been striving to feed a family of 11 with the aid of the product of labor exchanged for work slips, food for groceries, is owing six months' back rent. But for the leniency of his landlord, the members of the family might not have even a roof over their heads.

The wife is a new mother.

There are many more cases of need in Lima similar to these.

MARCHED WITH BROWN'S ARMY

SALINA, KAN.—Luke F. Parsons, 38, who lives here, says he's the only living member of John Brown's band, famous for its raid on Harper's Ferry and other agitation against slavery before the Civil War.

"I knew John Brown better than any man living ever knew him," Parsons says. "I marched with him, fought with him, slept with him, ate with him, drank with him, and I was with him when he was killed."

Parsons did not take part in the raid on Harper's Ferry, but was with John Brown on several other historic occasions.

Parsons also is a Civil War veteran. He served in the battle of Osawatomie, Kas., sometimes called the "Bunker Hill of the Civil War."

MEN ARE DEFIED BY WOMEN

Runs for Senate in State Opposed to Suffrage

HAS GOOD CHANCE TO WIN

Progressive Platform Announced by Feminine "Scrapper"

JACKSON, Miss. — (Special) — "Nothing but my own death can take me out of this race!"

That's the statement of Miss Belle Kearney, woman candidate for United States senator from Mississippi, a state that bitterly fought the national woman suffrage amendment to the last ditch.

Political observers here say Miss Kearney's chance of winning is

THE KEARNEY PLATFORM
Here are the planks in the platform on which Miss Belle Kearney, candidate for United States senator, is running, defying attempts of men to get her to withdraw from the race.

Disarmament and entry of the United States into the League of Nations.

Legislation toward making the United States a nation of home owners rather than that of renters.

Strict enforcement of the Volstead act.

Protective legislation for women in industry.

Restricted immigration. Laws to enforce social morality.

Advocacy of a federal department of education with secretary in the cabinet.

A more vigorous public health policy.

Reduced taxation, federal aid for farmers, progressive labor legislation.

good and that a queer twist of political fate may cause Mississippi to send one of the first women to the Senate!

Miss Kearney repeatedly has defied masculine elements that have sought her withdrawal from the senatorial campaign.

NOT A "QUITTER"
"After the bitter fights I have gone thru to gain state and national prohibition and to win the ballot for women, I am not easily eliminated," she says.

"Men have been so in the habit of eliminating or effacing women that it's only natural for them to run true to form."

"But they forget they are faced by a new situation that looks like a stone wall—the enfranchisement of women."

"As a citizen of Mississippi I shall fight for my rights and the rights of every woman of the land. I shall have to battle alone without a campaign manager and without a campaign fund!"

WILL STUMP STATE
Miss Kearney started her active senatorial campaign as soon as it was established that Senator John S. Williams would not run for reelection.

With a brief platform she's now planning to stump every county in the state.

Having started her career as a schoolteacher, Miss Kearney early turned to uplift work. She became one of the best lecturers and organizers of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

She toured every state in the interest of this organization before federal prohibition legislation was passed. She also was an ardent suffrage worker.

In the World War she went to France at her own expense and engaged in relief work.

While several other candidates may enter the race, Miss Kearney's only possible opponent now is ex-Senator James K. Vardaman.

WERE QUIETLY MARRIED
Miss Helen Irene Throckmorton, of Linden-av., and Eugene Milton Seals, of W. Market-st., were quietly united in marriage, Monday evening, at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. G. M. Baumgardner.

ARTICHOKE DISHES

Sister Mary Tells You How to Prepare Tasty Ones

Most housekeepers regard the artichoke as an imported delicacy quite beyond the ordinary pocket-book and skill to prepare. But artichokes offer variety at a season when rather high and are so delicious and simple to prepare that they should be used as often as possible. Many made dishes suitable for a luncheon for guests, are concocted with artichokes.

There are two common varieties, the globe, or French, and the Jerusalem artichoke.

BOILED ARTICHOKE
Wash artichokes thru several waters. Trim the leaves if necessary and cut off the stems. Let stand in cold water containing one tablespoon of vinegar for half an hour.

Drain well and put into boiling water and boil, uncovered, for half an hour. Allow one medium sized artichoke for each person to be served. Allow one teaspoonful salt to each quart of water when boiling. Serve with Hollandaise sauce.

ARTICHOKE WITH MUSHROOM
Two or three globe artichokes, 1/2 pound mushrooms, 1 cup white sauce, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Trim and soak artichokes as in preceding recipe. Cut in fourths and boil in slightly salted water for half an hour. Put on to cook in boiling water and boil, uncovered, for half an hour. Allow one medium sized artichoke for each person to be served. Allow one teaspoonful salt to each quart of water when boiling. Serve with Hollandaise sauce.

ARTICHOKE ITALIAN STYLE
Four small artichokes, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 2 tablespoons oil, butter, paprika.

Remove stems and hard leaves and let stand in acidulated water for half an hour. Drain and cook in salted boiling water 15 minutes. Drain and arrange in a single layer in a buttered baking dish.

Pour over them the oil and butter and sprinkle with the cheese and paprika. Cover closely and bake in a slow oven for half an hour. Serve with white sauce.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE
One-half cup white sauce, 4 tablespoons cream or chicken broth, 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 eggs (yolks), 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Heat the sauce over hot water. Add the yolks of eggs and cream or broth well mixed but not beaten. Stir over hot water until the sauce thickens, but do not let boil.

Add lemon juice slowly, stirring constantly, and butter bit by bit. Season with salt and pepper. This sauce is often used with fish.

SHE IS ELECTED TO COUNCIL

MRS. C. H. MORRIS
DES MOINES, Ia.—Mrs. C. H. Morris, coal operator, grocery executive, club woman and mother, has been elected to the city council of Des Moines.

She was the first woman in the city to run for municipal office and her success ranks Des Moines as probably the largest city in the United States with a woman in the council.

Mrs. Morris has taken a prominent part in many things that have had to do with the city. She has been president and treasurer of the Des Moines Federation, served on the board of the Y. W. C. A., been president of the Women's Rotary Club and treasurer of the Women's Exchange.

"The active participation of women in community politics and their accomplishments in Arizona where I visited a year ago, were an inspiration to me," says she. "I became interested in politics myself."

Mrs. Morris' husband was a coal operator. He was killed in 1906 and she took charge of his business, later closing it out. Then she entered the wholesale grocery business as an executive with a local concern.

OHIO FEDERATION NEWS

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick
Spring conferences are to determine whether or not the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs is to establish a fitting memorial for the soldiers who trained at Camp Sherman during the World war. All clubs are to voice their wishes in this matter at their coming meetings. Delegates will be instructed how to vote on the proposed memorial plan of an assessment of 25 cents per capita for a period of three years, or whether a higher or lower assessment should be made, according to the recommendation of the memorial committee headed by Mrs. John MacKee, of Springfield.

Clubs unable to be represented at the district meetings will be expected to forward the reports of their art chairman.

During the war members of the Ohio Federation did splendid service at Camp Sherman under the wise supervision of the then state president, Mrs. Prentice E. Hood, of Toledo, and to many of Ohio's club women it has appealed as a fitting thing to do to commemorate the sacrifice made by the boys who trained at Camp Sherman. The action taken by the various spring conferences will reflect the sentiment for or against such a proposition at this time.

The war committee's report submitted at the Cincinnati state convention last October, this paragraph is taken:

"If we cannot erect a memorial that is worthy of the spirit of the sacrifice of our boys, a memorial executed by one of our great American sculptors, a memorial worthy of the ideals of the Federation, that will do credit to our nation and a pride to our state it would be best not to discuss memorials."

OHIO FEDERATION NOTE
Mrs. John MacKee, of Springfield, state federation art chairman, spoke on "City Planning and City Beautiful" before the Bowling Green Women's club at Bowling Green, March 22. On March 21, Mrs. MacKee conducted a conference with the Denison War Memorial committee and in the evening of the same date she talked informally on "Interior Decoration" before the Denison Federation of Women's Clubs at Denison, Iowa.

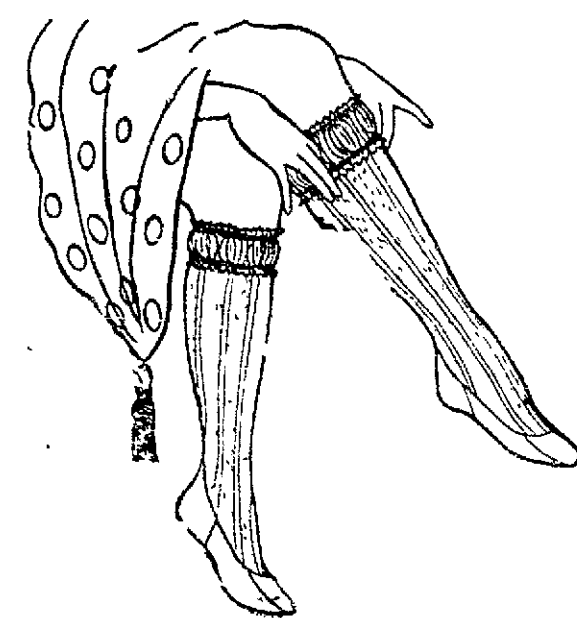

Mrs. George Elliott McCormick, of Marion, state federation director of press, and a field worker in the division of child welfare of the state department of welfare, addressed the Cleveland Federation of Women's Clubs at the Hotel Statler in Cleveland, March 21. She is to address the Council of the Akron school league May 1 and the Akron Federation of Women's Clubs May 8.

SUPER-ABUNDANCE OF CINEMA FEATURES IS BOOKED FOR THE WEEK

ARRAY OF SPLENDID OFFERINGS

Screen Productions of High Class Are Brought to Lima for Pleasure of Movie Fans

Sigma, Faurot, Lyric and Majestic To Present Wonder Plays of the Silver Sheet

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)
A SUPER-ABUNDANCE of cinema features, screen productions of the first water, will shine forth from local silver sheets during the coming week. And such an array of stars! There Rodolph Valentino, Dorothy Dalton, Norma Talmadge, Chic Sale, Thomas Meighan, Viola Dana and several others of equal prominence, appearing in this very choice selection, which opens an extended engagement today at the Faurot, boasts such well known stars as Rodolph Valentino and Dorothy Dalton. This is a sea-gold tale, delightfully told. In it Miss Dalton makes her debut in her newly acquired bobbed hair.

"His Nibs," a five-reel comedy, featuring Charles "Chic" Sale, opens a five-day engagement today at the Lyric. Mr. Sale is seen in seven different characterizations, each a gem of mimic art. And in conjunction with the showing of "His Nibs," a laughable rube skit by Rube Tripp will be presented. The bill as a whole is one of good, clean comedy. Channing Pollock's famous stage play, "The Sign on the Door," which Marjorie Rameau immortalized, has been made into a movie, with Norma Talmadge appearing in the stellar role. It opens a four-day engagement today at the Sigma. Miss Talmadge has the able support of Charles Richmond and Lew Cody in this delightful dramatic feature.

Viola Dana and Gareth Hughes, two youthful screen celebrities, appear to advantage in "Life's Darn Funny," a cleverly executed comedy drama which opens a two-day engagement next Friday at the Lyric theatre.

William Russell, Western star, has a slightly different role in "Desert Blossoms," his new photoplay, which comes to the Sigma for a three-day run, starting Thursday. Helen Ferguson plays opposite.

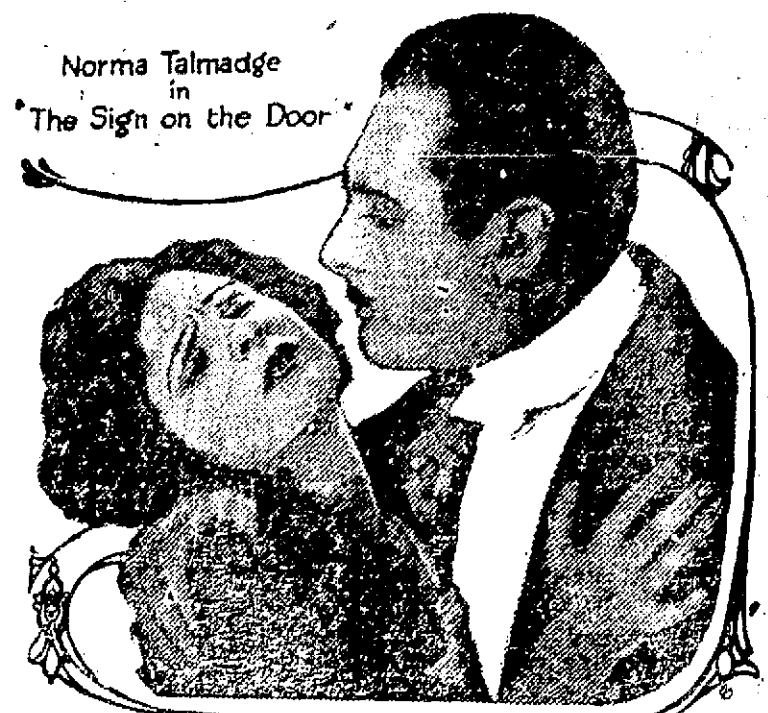

The Majestic's Sunday program opens with "The Frontier of the Stars," with Thomas Meighan in the leading role. There's also a new Johnny Hines comedy, "Torchy's Big Lead." On Thursday, a special Country Store will be arranged, at which valuable prizes will be given away.

Faurot—Greenwich Follies

THE GREENWICH VILLAGE FOLLIES, the "revue" comedy of life in New York's quarter Latin which for the past year has been the accepted vogue in New York and Chicago for that fraction of the amusement seeking public ever on the alert for entertainment that features the hordes of convention and tradition, will float into the Faurot next Saturday afternoon and night.

The "Follies" is a stereotyped succession of travesty, satirical mimicry, vivid stage pictures, droll comic episodes, fantastic dances of the Orient, uproarious burlesque, slipshod salutes of jazz, and daring fashion parades. The revue boasts a chorus of the twenty famous artists' models, a refreshingly new type of stage beauty, which has been substituted for the staidness and that supplied by stolid show girl of the ordinary musical comedy. These artists' models were taken from the studios, from the shops of the smart modistes, and from the workshops of sculptor and etcher. There is a naive and distinct quality of beauty that has hitherto been unknown upon the stage.

The "Follies" has its inception in the quaint little Greenwich Village Theatre in New York. The theatre lies in that section of New York where the artistically ambitious verse libre poets, jugglers of cosmic theories, exponents of diverse fads and sundry "isms"—congregate to give voice and expression to their varied notions and emotions. But the revue was not long for the village. The cramped dimensions of the theatre could not cope with the immediate popularity of the revue, and soon the "Follies" was moved to the larger theatre in the very heart of Broadway's famous amusement circle. For seven months it was the more in which smart audiences made their pilgrimage. There followed an all summer engagement in Chicago. It will be presented in this city as in New York and Chicago with a cast of exceptional entertainers, prominent among whom are the Hickey Brothers, comedians and dancers; "Japonette," who dances in the Japanese scene; the McLaughlin Alley syncopators, kings of jazz, the fascinating, nervous comedienne Myrna Gehrue, Judy Carson, Alice Humphries, Victor Fay, Matt Healey and the Bohemian Trio, all purveyors of fun for the multitude.

The Majestic Pictures

THOMAS MEIGHAN, the popular Paramount star, appears as a gangster and gunman in his latest picture, "The Frontier of the Stars," which opens a two day engagement today at the Majestic theatre.

The story of "The Frontier of the Stars" is a strong and unusual one, telling of Buck Leslie, leader of the Porcuth Street gang which leadership he holds because of his cleverness and utter disregard of danger. When he is fleeing from Phil Hoyt, a Bowery detective, Buck runs to the rooftops, and there comes upon little Hilda Shea, sister-in-law of the detective, a cripple, who has spent most of her life in a wheel chair on the roof.

From then on is unfolded an interesting study in two different personalities, Hilda with her sweet philosophy of life and her belief that everything is good, and Buck with his firm conviction that there is no good. Miss Fairs Binner, as the little crippled girl, gives a charming characterization.

In addition to the feature picture, the Majestic's Sunday program includes a new Torchy comedy entitled "Torchy's Big Lead." On Thursday night Country Store will be the feature attraction.

The Lyric Pictures

CHARLES SALE, otherwise "Chic" Sale, one of the best liked and most popular figures in vaudeville, is the newest recruit to the movies, and in his first picture, "His Nibs" which opens a five day engagement to day at the Lyric theatre, he gives us a charming novelty that is as downright funny and diverting as anything that has come to our fair city for a long time.

"His Nibs" presents Mr. Sale in seven distinct characterizations, each one different from the other and each as well done. The entire production is a clever satire on a rural picture show, and the leading character is the proprietor, manager and operator of the Slippery Elm Picture Palace, better known as "His Nibs."

Besides appearing as the picture show manager, Mr. Sale is seen as the village beau brunnet, as the "country bumpkin" son of "His Nibs," as the young lady who plays the piano, and as the hero in the thrilling screen drama, "He Fooled 'Em All." This interpolated film is in three short reels and is one of the hits of the entire production. It is a kindly burlesque on the old-fashioned movie—with all the familiar ingredients—showing the country boy who home to make his fortune, the beautiful girl he leaves behind, her hard hearted father, the villain who sell the boy worthless oil stock and the fight before the happy ending, etc.

Scene from the fascinating comedy success, "3 Wise Fools," at Faurot Opera House, Monday night.

Appearing in support of Mr. Sale is Colleen Moore, Joseph Dowling, Watt Whitman and Lydia Yeamans Titus. Novel and humorous sub-titles by Arthur Hurd is also a feature of the production.

In addition to "His Nibs" and in conjunction therewith, Rube Tripp, famous vaudeville impersonator, will present a program of songs, jokes, interpretations, etc., all in keeping with the theme of the picture. This purely comedy act, together with the showing of "His Nibs" constitute one of the best and most laugh-provoking programs ever projected on a Lima screen.

Starting Friday, the Lyric will present Viola Dana and Gareth Hughes in "Life's Darn Funny," a clever little comedy drama that is sure to please.

"Moran-Of the Lady Letty"

ONE of the striking new pictures of the season will be given its first presentation at the Faurot today. It is George Melford's superb production "Moran of the Lady Letty" with a special cast headed by Dorothy Dalton and Rudolph Valentino.

The story is one of the strongest subjects for the screen ever pictured. Frank Norris was a master story teller and his "Moran of the Lady Letty" is a true adventure tale of the Pacific Seas, with the salt tangle of the ocean thrill on every page. Mr. Melford has given it a screen production that is worthy of the story. Three sailing vessels were chartered for the picture and the scenes around Melg's Wharf and San Francisco are the very scenes of the picture. Water scenes were made aboard ship, outside of the famed Golden Gate and Magdalena Bay.

Miss Dalton's recent fine work in "Fool's Paradise" established her as one of the greatest dramatic actresses on the screen in the hands of a capable director and she will justify this position more than ever in this production. As Moran, born and reared on the seas, her father's right hand "man" on board "The Lady Letty" she is a figure that is a perfect type of the unusual woman. Rudolph Valentino, hero of "The Sheik" and "The Four Horsemen," plays the leading male role and presents a remarkable character study. Others in the carefully selected cast include Walter Long, Charles Brindley, Emil Jorgensen, Nade Wayne, Cecil Holland and George Kuwa.

With such a story, such a cast, such a capable direction and all the advantages of Paramount production, you are going to find "Moran of the Lady Letty" one of the high lights in recent pictures. It opens at the Faurot this afternoon and will be shown every day during the week except on Monday and Saturday.

Central High to Present Automobile Film

THE Science Club of Central High School, in co-operation with the Automobile Club of this city, has arranged for the presentation of "Elements of the Automobile," a twelve reel film which shows the complete mechanism and assembly of an automobile. The film is one of the most complete and interesting of its kind ever pictured, and should be of infinite worth to both the students of the High Schools and to persons who find mechanism an interesting study.

"Elements of the Automobile" will be shown at Central High School auditorium on Tuesday, April 4th, at 8 p. m., and the performance will be repeated on Wednesday at the same hour. Children are cordially invited to attend.

RUSSIA WILL NOT CHANGE POLICY

Delegation on Way to Genoa Conference Interviewed.

EQUAL PARTNER IN PARLEY

Prepared to Furnish Guarantees for Loans.

(By JOHN GRAUBENZ)
ABOARD THE SOVIET SPECIAL, RIGA TO BERLIN — (1 p. m. Saturday) — George Tchitcherin, head of Russia's delegation to the Genoa conference, sat in his luxurious private car attached to the special train which is bearing the delegates southward thru bleak, snow-clad fields Saturday afternoon, smilingly discussing with the United Press correspondent his country's policy at the forthcoming conclave.

Tchitcherin answered questions "what will Russia's attitude be if the Genoa conference requests alteration of its present form of government?" he was asked.

EQUAL PARTNER
"Our invitation to attend the conference as an equal partner presupposes that all participants realize that raising such a question is an absurdity and a gratuitous insult to the Russian nation," Tchitcherin replied.

"Russia wants large loans. How does she intend to guarantee them? Will private individuals be permitted to negotiate such loans?" "We have drafted solid guarantees from a commercial standpoint. Except for the Kremlin government and the cooperatives, no parties exist in Russia which would stand a chance of securing any credits worth mentioning."

"Will the Soviet continue its monopoly or will free trade be discussed and permitted?"

"Monopoly at present is the only form of foreign trade consistent with our national economic interests, as even foreign capitalists admitted after they visited Russia. This won't prevent private capital from linking itself with foreign trade transactions in the state."

NO CENSURE
"Will negotiations proceed, should the Genoa conference refuse to recognize the Soviet government?"

"This conference was not accidentally hit upon by some one, but is a belated manifestation of the obvious necessity of all nations making a concerted effort to overcome the final consequences of the war. This necessity, involving recognition of the actual Russian government, remains, even though it should not be recognized at the present time."

"If the conference fails, will Russia follow the purport of Lenin's speech before the metal workers and close her economic borders and manage her destiny from within?"

"That was not the purport of Lenin's speech. He simply meant Russia will live somehow, whatever becomes of Genoa and naturally she will have to adjust her economic system in accordance with the amount of foreign cooperation she receives."

"He disparaged the suggestion that he was worried over possible disturbances his countrymen might excite in Italy."

"We are not worried. Are we not guests of the Italian nation?" he said, lightly.

GRANGE WORK IS INSPIRATION

Members in Session Here, Urged to Jubilee Year Effort

Inspiration gained at the meeting of Allen Co. Pomona Grange, held at Memorial Hall Saturday, should be disseminated to all granges in the county for better work during this, the Golden Jubilee year of grange work.

Such was the message brought by G. R. Lewis, Fieldy, lecturer of the Ohio State Grange. Lewis came to Lima to discuss "The Benefit of Rural Organizations" before the grange meeting.

J. A. Hook and J. B. Severns led in the discussion. "The Grange, Its Responsibility, Display and Part in the County Fair."

The past several years the grange has taken an active interest and has carried away large number of prizes. In the discussion, methods of exhibiting to secure a more satisfactory showing, came up.

During the noon hour, lecturers of granges in the county conferred with State Lecturer Lewis. In an endeavor to promote better methods in organization and extend influence and power of these subordinate bodies.

A basket dinner at noon was a special feature of the meeting. Music was provided by Shawnee grange, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Hoyer, lecturer. More than 150 persons attended.

VERNISS KRAMER, LIMA BOY, DIES IN FLORIDA

Verniss Kramer, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kramer, 1178 Forest-av., died Thursday in St. Petersburg, Fla., according to word received by his parents. Kramer was in St. Petersburg, where he was working at his trade, that of a carpenter. Death was due to heart trouble.

The body is expected to arrive in Lima, Monday. Funeral arrangements will be completed upon arrival of the body here.

GREENVILLE MAN IS TO ADDRESS KIWANIS HERE

John Maher, Greenville attorney, will address the Lima Kiwanis club at the Argonne Hotel Tuesday noon, on United States and Canadian relations. The occasion is Canadian week, the United States and Canada.

An essay contest will be staged in Lima schools and prizes awarded to Kiwanis for the best compositions on our relations with Canada. Clayton Paine, secretary, announced.

LET PERSONALITY PICK YOUR PERFUME, HE ADVISES

DR. W. D. DUANE AND COLLEEN MOORE, FILM STAR, FOR WHOM HE IS DETERMINING THE CORRECT PERFUME.

LOS ANGELES — One drop of personality, or the red rose matron like a funny may socially make or break a woman.

Dr. William D. Duane, celebrated odor chemist, who has prescribed perfumes for royalty and society leaders on two continents, says so.

For 30 years Dr. Duane has followed his sensitive nose into many lands in quest of rare essences and has translated them into ravishing bouquets for the elite in his laboratories.

"Woman," says he, "from ancient times has been borrowing the gift of flowers for her toilet, but it is surprising how little she has learned about this fine art."

DEPENDS ON PERSONALITY
"What a drop of perfume may do for her depends on her personality."

"By constant reiteration of colors, pictures and folk tales, certain types of women have become almost instinctively associated with a floral counterpart. They have the fancied characteristics of the rose, the lily or the orchid. Wherefore the violet girl subtly affronts the violet if she insists on smelling like a Chinese."

How John Doe Trades Freedom For a Trip to City Hoosgow

When John Doe, under the influence of the cup which encourages, megaphones to the shy populace that he can knock for a goal any copper in Lima, he is cranking up a very far-reaching bit of legal machinery.

When the patrolman arrives and is not knocked for a goal, but, instead, John Doe jumps, limp and sprawling, in front of the emergency wagon, the machinery is in motion.

GETTING PINCHED

For the business of getting pinched is one of many episodes. First comes the swift ride in the gas wagon and John Doe, having sufficiently recovered, to get conversational, is shut up with the admonition to "tell it to the judge."

When he arrives at police headquarters, he faces a calm individual known as a desk sergeant, who takes one gaze and orders John wadded to the turnkey.

The prisoner's path to the workhouse is only half started. The turnkey asks questions and appears to get a great deal of information out of John's incoherent "blabs and blabs."

The age (apparently) color, name, charge and such information is jotted down on the police blotter. Then John is "frisked" as the patrolman, says, or searched, in the words of the layman.

He is allowed to keep his tobacco or papers. Money, knives and such valuables are taken from him and placed in an envelope, to be filed.

STAIRWAY OF SIGH

John is then permitted to sleep off his desire to distribute black eyes to the police department. The next morning, red-eyed and apprehensive, John lines up and passes up a "stairway of sighs" to the court room.

The judge listens. He may let John go, he may fine him the costs, he may impose a heavier fine, or he may send him to the workhouse. If John goes free, he gets his money and valuables from the turnkey.

If he goes to the workhouse, it's a long ride to Toledo, and his belongings are transferred there to be given back to him when he has served out his sentence.

CONTRACTS GIVEN

Lima Firms to Furnish Part of City Water Line Material.

Contracts for furnishing material needed for Lima's $194,000 water main extensions were awarded Saturday by Manager C. A. Bingham and Harry N. Osgood, purchasing agent. Lima firms will furnish much of the material.

The letting was informal, according to Manager Bingham, the sale not being advertised. The various firms were awarded contracts to furnish given material at prices specified, in such amounts as the city may require.

The following firms were the successful bidders: Clow & Son, Chicago, 23,000 tons of iron pipe; A. P. Smith, East Orange, N. J. valves; Kennedy & Co., and the Ludlow company, drains; Crane company, Lima; Calumet crosses, and "C's," Howler Foundry Co., Cleveland; cut-offs and flanges, Mueller Manufacturing Co., Cleveland; valve boxes, Chalmers Manufacturing Co., Lima; curb boxes and pig lead, Manufacturers Supply Co., Lima; pig lead, United Lead Co., Cincinnati.

BAKING COMPANY HOBLED
COLUMBUS — A lone bandit Saturday night held up two branches of the Top Notch Baking company here and escaped. Police do not believe the loot secured was large.

HARDING PLAYED FOR DISMISSALS

Ousting of Printing and Engraving Employees Denounced.

CALLED SPOILS GRABBING

Resolutions Demanding Reasons for Action Drawn.

(By LAURENCE M. BENEDICT)
WASHINGTON.—(United Press).

—Resolution demanding the reason for President Harding's summary dismissal of Director Wilmett and other employees of the bureau of printing and engraving, were being prepared Saturday for introduction in congress next week.

Senator King, Utah, probably will introduce a sweeping resolution, demanding that the charges upon which the dismissals were based be set forth in detail, as required by the civil service law, and inquiring why this was not done.

Meanwhile the reasons for the action continues a mystery, the White House refusing to add anything to its statements that the dismissals were made in the interests of efficiency.

Attorney General Daugherty and William J. Burns stated the department of justice had made an investigation at the bureau, but refused to indicate whether it concerned irregularities or thefts.

VIEW OF DEMOCRATS

Democratic senators Saturday called the episode the crowning example of Republican spoils grabbing.

They have been listing other instances for use in the campaign. The latest episode, however, will be discussed, along with the general policy of the administration, as soon as senators can get recognition Monday.

Senators King and Caraway denounced Harding's action as entirely partisan, high-handed and designed solely to give places to Republicans at the expense of the Democrats.

King said the spoils system was being brought to its climax and that civil service was being made a mockery by the administration.

STANDS GUARD AS MATE STEALS

Wife, Driven by Hunger, Starts Husband in Crime Career

CHICAGO — (United Press) — Mrs. Paul Hartung Saturday night confessed she started her husband on a career of crime during which he is alleged to have robbed 350 houses. Mrs. Hartung, 24 years old, held her two-year old baby close to her as she sobbed her story.

"My husband was out of work," she said. "We spent all our savings and were hungry. We appealed to relatives but got no aid."

"Finally I became desperate lest the baby would starve. We put the baby in a carriage and started down the street. I stood outside of homes while he entered and robbed ice boxes of food."

Police were puzzled over Hartung's burglaries. Valuables in many homes were overlooked while he took food and little household trinkets.

Mrs. Hartung confessed to Michael Hughes, chief of detectives, according to an announcement by police. She was allowed to go to her home because she is soon to become a mother. No charges have been placed against her. Hartung is charged with burglary.

MRS. VAN GUNTE MAKES HIGHEST GRADE IN TEST FOR POLICEWOMAN PLACE

Mrs. Amelia Van Gunte received the highest grade in the examination held for policewoman. It was announced Saturday by Ben S. Motter, clerk of the civil service commission.

Standings of all of the candidates will not be announced until Monday. Motter said. One patrolman failed to make the grade.

Walter Charned, 734 E. Third-st., Charles Hopper and George Throckmorton, 413 Prospect-av., who headed the eligible list for patrolmen certified by the civil service a month ago, may be appointed to fill vacancies in the department, Manager Bingham said Saturday.

One vacancy was created by promotion of Sergeant Edwards and another by the resignation of Rolla E. Glover, tendered Friday.

Dr. Parent will speak on "Ethics of the Medical Profession." The address is one of a series of members are hearing on ethics of the various professions.

JOHN BURROUGHS' HOME IS PURCHASED BY FORD

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—The boyhood home of John Burroughs, America's greatest naturalist, to be used as a memorial, was purchased for the purpose by Henry Ford, Judge A. T. Clearwater announced Saturday, apropos of the dedication of the bronze tablet to be affixed Monday to a boulder beneath which the naturalist's body lies.

The Burroughs' Memorial Association failed to raise sufficient money to buy the property, according to Clearwater and Ford's check was therefore used.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edison, Hamilton Garland, Harvey S. Firestone, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Burroughs and a coterie of literary people from the American Academy of Arts have accepted invitations to the dedication April 3.

AUSTIN STRONG'S SPARKLING COMEDY GEM APPEARS HERE ON MONDAY

PLEASING OFFERING HERALDED

"Three Wise Fools" Comes to Faurot Opera House for One Night Appearance

Author Is Producer of Many Stage Plays That Have Won Way to Favor

JOHN GOLDEN, producer of "Lightnin'" the world's record-breaker, will present at the Faurot tomorrow night the much-heralded company of "Three Wise Fools." Austin Strong's sparkling comedy gem, about which so much has been written in the magazines of the country during and since its year's run at the Criterion theatre on Broadway. Local theatre-goers will see this play, said by critics who know, to be the best comedy in years, exactly as it was presented in New York, Chicago and the other big theatrical centers.

John W. Ransome, the original Hans Wagner in "The Prince of Pilsen," Hazel Sexton, Harry Forsman, Burke Clarke, Robert L. Keith, Millard Vincent, Minnie Remaley and the other members of the cast are, in no small measure responsible for the great success enjoyed by this unusual play.

The scenes of "Three Wise Fools" are laid in New York City, in that quaint part of the town known as the Washington Square district. But not the Washington Square of modern days with its short-haired women and artistically-inclined anarchists who live in red and green garrets. The Washington Square of "Three Wise Fools" is the old and aristocratic quarter yet unrivaled by the cubists and futurists.

There is undisturbed peace live the three wise fools and their servants. Nothing is allowed to annoy them. All is harmonious and dead-end monotonous.

Suddenly chaos replaces order. What cataclysm occurs, and why, should not be divulged. Suffice to say that there are plenty of thrills, heart throbs and laughter to please the most blasé habitue of the theatre.

John Golden is one producer who prides himself on a perfect cast. His "Return to the Right," "Lightnin'" "The First Year," "Dear Me," and "Thank You" are models of ideal casting, and "Three Wise Fools" is said to be no exception.

The Sigma Pictures AMERICA'S foremost emotional actress, Miss Norma Talmadge, who is almost a stranger to Lima fans, is scheduled to appear today and the first part of this week in "The Sign on the Door."

It is the Sigma theatre. The picture is an adaptation of Channing Pollock's famous play of the same name which enjoyed a long and successful run on Broadway, with Marjorie Rambeau in the leading role.

Miss Talmadge is said to be fascinating in the role of Mrs. Lefe Renshaw, pretty young wife of a man of wealth and social standing, who becomes involved in a tragic situation as a result of an innocent affair before her marriage. Miss Talmadge has a role that is especially suited to her histrionic abilities.

A cast of unusual prominence appears opposite the star in this new production. Charles Richman, who has appeared in a number of Norma's most recent successes, is her leading man in "The Sign on the Door," while Lew Cody also has an important part. The picture has been produced to an elaborate scale, the scenes having been filmed at Palm Beach and in New York. The story follows closely that of the stage version, and the completed production can truthfully be said to be the best yet made by the Norma Talmadge company.

Starting on Thursday, and continuing for the remainder of the week the program at the Sigma will feature William Russell in "Desert Blossoms," from the story by Kate Corbaley. Mr. Russell is seen in the role of a young construction engineer connected with a mighty government irrigation enterprise. Many of the scenes were filmed in the Mojave Desert in California and are strikingly beautiful. An engaging love theme is interwoven with exciting adventures, making "Desert Blossoms" a most interesting cinema production.

AT THE ORPHEUM Today only, the Raynor Lehr Co. in a new and enticing bill. Starting Monday, matinee, Walton's "Dainty Dandies" will present a new musical comedy. New program on Thursday matinee. Amateur contest Friday evening.

AT THE SIGMA Today, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Sign on the Door" with Norma Talmadge in the stellar role. Charles Richman and Lew Cody play opposite. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, William Russell in "Desert Blossoms" and a new two reel comedy.

AT THE FAUROT Today, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Rudolph Valentino and Dorothy Dalton in "Moran of the Lady Letty," a George Melford production. On Monday the comedy "Three Wise Fools" will Mayme Gerhuc and The Models in "The Greenwich Village Follies," at Faurot Opera House, Saturday matinee and night.

he presented, on Saturday, the Greenwich Village Follies.

AT THE MAJESTIC Today and Monday, Thomas Meighan in "The Frontier of the Stars" and Torchy comedy. Tuesday and Wednesday, all-star cast in "Held By The Enemy." Thursday only, Country Store and Douglas MacLean in "Chickens." Friday and Saturday Dustin Farnum in "Big Happiness."

NEED OF PARLEY HAS PASSED

G. O. P. Pre-Primary Convention Is Not Now Necessary

REPUBLICANS IN A TANGLE

Liquor Issue Injected Into Affairs of Party in Power

(BY J. W. FISHER)

Secret thing you know all G. O. P. opposition to a continuation of the Ohio primary system is melting away as the dew of the morning before the rays of a beneficent sun.

And there's a reason. If you have not already divined it, here is the answer. The thing that was destined to be accomplished by a "primary" convention, which is tantamount to a questionable abrogation of the primary, has been effected in another way. The party leaders wanted Governor Davis out of the way. When it appeared that it could not be done otherwise, they threatened him with a convention that would provide a hand-picked candidate. The would-be victor, Harry, was to be slaughtered at the polls in August.

But the Good Young Governor saved him the trouble. He saw the gathering storm, the ominous clouds and the flashes of lightning, accompanied by peals of fearful thunder, about to descend upon him from Washington. Then he decided his private interests were being neglected; he owed a duty to his own—he was done with serving the people of his state. But no tears were shed.

The need of a pre-primary convention was eliminated. Praise be to Harry for his keenness of observation!

Despite the fact that there have been renewed suggestions from Washington that a convention be called in Ohio, those in close touch with the situation assert that the first phase of the 1922 campaign has come to a close, with a definite decision that there will be no gathering of leaders to agree on a slate. Party voters will select their men from among those offered in the primary, in the usual manner.

What is looked upon as the final word of the convention proposition has been made public by Colonel Carmi A. Thompson. The forces which sought the elimination of Davis via the convention route, had gone so far with the plan that when Davis extracted himself from the maze of cross-currents, it was difficult to right-about-face and back-track quickly. Too much suspicion would be excited thereby, it was felt. Judge Harvey T. Smith, secretary of state, believes he has been largely instrumental in establishing the solvency of the direct primary election method, without the intervention of a secret confab of organization leaders.

He is not surprised—not at all—that all the prospective candidates for Governor who wish to step into Davis' shoes are attempting to climb onto the band wagon, in favor of a continuation of the open primary election in Ohio and are now lined up, almost anything that in any manner smacks of a pre-primary election convention.

It is adding nothing to the status of the primary plan to say that Harry feels the people of Ohio are ready to take charge of the August primary election completely and to "stand on their constitutional rights." In fact, they have made up their minds to that effect, he says.

So, dear friends, you may confidently look for little more opposition to the primary system, from a G. O. P. viewpoint, unless perchance the thing be kept alive as a man of straw or a dust cloud to hide the possibility of the real issue of the campaign coming to the fore—the Davis administration.

Governor Harry wanted to run again—oh, so much! But the leaders said him nay. Thus endeth the drama for Harry.

Colonel Carmi Thompson isn't greatly worried over sporadic insistence from Washington that a pre-primary election convention be held, nor by the protests voiced by friends of other candidates who are poking up their noses, hoping lightning—political lightning—will hit "em and not 'em hard.

The wily Colonel fears that possibly his long absence from the state may militate against him in his gubernatorial aspirations, therefore the best he will say is that he is still canvassing sentiment and that he is being encouraged by what he is finding. He has made no out-and-out declaration of candidacy, while others are tumbling in and beating him to it.

It was quite natural for Thompson to profess ignorance of the so-called Hynicka-Brown-Maschke conference in New York, designed to eliminate all other formidable candidates and leave the field open to him to become an easy victor. Thompson admits that the retirement of Davis leaves the Ohio situation rather chaotic. Despite the fact that Davis has "retired," there are indications that he may change his mind a little later and decide, after all, that he wants to be either re-nominated or eliminated by the voters of his party themselves.

It is generally the case that everyone speaks well of the departed. Since Harry has joined the list of "dead ones" in a political sense, some of the leaders were so tickled over the turn of events that they began saying nice things about the Cleveland man—actually! And it's gone to Harry's head. He fondly believes that it is sincere; that they really mean it. The jokers will have to be careful. They may go too far and spoil a perfectly good thing.

Another angle of the Carmi Thompson state of mind is the statement that he is more concerned about success in November than success in August. He couldn't well say it any differently. You understand, surely Carmi expects opposition in the primary and lots of it. He wants to be sure of his footing before he treads into deeper water. In other words, he wants to be certain he'll be the east into the Ohio hills.

A disquieting feature of the G. O. P. situation is the tendency of friends and backers of Governor Davis to force down the throats of the candidates words that will emerge again in the form of a declaration backing the reorganization measure, lauding it to the skies and demanding that the people give it a vote of endorsement. Sections of Davis' place can't see it that manner. They are afraid of the buzz saw—most of 'em. Before that angle of this is settled, it looks like somebody will have to be hushed and gagged.

Shades of George H. Cox! Cincinnati is accredited with being the part time home of the "master mind of corrupt politics." That's the sort of "language" Charles L. Knight, turbulent Akron Congressman, employs in referring to Rud K. Hynicka of New York, who runs the Hamilton-G.O. P. organization as a side line and sits as supreme arbiter in the picking of candidates in Ohio.

"This past master of corrupt politics," Knight says, "will endeavor to select the Republican candidate for Ohio and then the primary election comes," he said in a recent address. "You voters who have to pay the bills of bad government, will go fishing or to a ball game while Hynicka and the bosses in Cleveland, Toledo and Columbus turn the trick."

Nice things for a prospective Republican candidate for Governor to be saying about G. O. P. leaders, now isn't it? And Charles is having good reason for his inspirations as to send out mails of his mug for newspaper morgues and several columns of "stuff" for use by tired editors when the "psychological" moment arrives.

Further attacking the bosses of his party in Ohio, Knight takes a vicious swing at the Harding and Davis administrations in this fashion: "I have been criticized for not offering a remedy for the deplorable conditions that exist in this government. The trouble is that citizens have been lunched so long by politicians into accepting their quick remedies that they are not satisfied unless they have another gold brick to offer them."

"It never occurs to them that things would change and taxes would be lower if boards and commissions were broken up and soft job holders were sent in search of useful work. The politician forms these useless appendages to government, always under the plea that society is about to be saved, but in reality to strengthen the organization and to keep out of office any man who might endanger its existence."

Charles Knight, having alienated himself from the possibility of being nominated for Governor by the G. O. P., apparently, is proving to be one of the best assets the Democratic party could have. While Knight is taking off the lid and bawling out his own party, the Democrats are saving wood. And what hurts the Republican party leaders the worst is that Knight is telling the truth about the methods they employ. More power to you, Charles!

Little is heard these days, along really serious lines, concerning a tax measure that would afford some hope of adjusting a serious condition in Ohio. The question appears to have gone beyond the pale of politicians, since the late lamented G. O. P. controlled Legislature "fiddled while Rome burned." The finger of destiny now points to commercial and financial interests as the saviors of the situation.

There is a movement in the direction of a constitutional amendment for solving the Ohio tax problem. Anticipating this, the groups opposed to classification have completed their organization and are formulating plans for a flash light. If, dear friends, their campaign should be as determined and emphatic as their initial statements are bellicose, the chances in favor of the clasping of a classification amendment to their breasts by the voters appears to be very remote.

The classificationists propose an amendment to the state constitution. They are charged by the uniform rule organization as being grouped with constitution nullifiers. They are declared to be behind a dishonest scheme whereby they may escape the burdens of taxation and accordingly are foes of society and of the republic. That's hard language, so it is! And these are but a few of the accusations which the Uniform Tax League hurled at its enemies. How- ever, they read thru the entire list, distrustful against them, they will find many other things equally harsh and calculated to stir their ire.

The uniform rulers admit, the unsatisfactory character of the present tax code and pledge themselves to the support of amendments that will improve its character. If the representatives of these groups in recent Ohio Legislatures had approached their task in anything like the compromising mood conveyed in the latest bill of rights, the tax tangle might have been cleared up long ago.

Congressman John L. Cable has again taken a hand in the postoffice muddle in New Bremen, in Auglaize-co. The county G. O. P. committee, in session, voted to endorse Hilmer Dickman, one of the three eligibles. His choice was communicated to Cable, but facts were laid before the civil service commission in Washington which brought a ruling that Dickman was ineligible, due to non-residence. Congressman Cable has practically demanded that the committee endorse J. C. Poppe, who was first on the eligible list, but who failed to receive a single vote when the committee assembled.

At first the committee was favorable to Cade Schultenberg, one of the most active water voters for the party pachyderm in Auglaize-co, but when three ex-service men outdistanced him on the eligible list, he was dropped like a hot potato by Cable. When Cable demanded that the county committee endorse one of the three ex-service men, it came thru with the goods on Dickman, but when it was found that he had lived in Detroit in 1920, it was the door for Hilmer.

What the next move by the committee will be is still to be disclosed.

There no longer remains any question of doubt but that the announcement made by C. H. Durand of Coshocton for the Republican nomination of Governor, has injected the liquor issue into the G. O. P. campaign. Durand is an avowed "wet."

In a statement he issued, Durand said he would seek the repeal of all state prohibition acts; favor sale of light wines and beer; work for cheap roads; cut "red tape" in the administration of the workmen's compensation law and would also oppose a state constabulary.

Carmi Thompson, first choice of the party leaders for Governor, has indicated that he will oppose any move to modify prohibition laws. Rupert Beetham, of Cadiz, speaker of the House of Representatives, has begun active campaign as a candidate for Governor, declaring for a taxation plank, state reorganization code, highway construction, reforestation, school improvements and law enforcement.

State Representative J. T. Burke, one of the few Republican members of the Legislature who fought the Davis reorganization act, assails Burke's stand in favor of the reorganization. Burke plainly states his opinion that if Hynicka or any other man is nominated on the Republican ticket as a backer of the reorganization law, he will be defeated at the polls in November.

A. Victor Donahay of New Philadelphia, former Auditor of State, is still having free rein as a candidate for Governor of Ohio, on the Democratic ticket, so far as can be observed at this time. There have been numerous statements concerning this or that Democrat as a possible candidate for the nomination, but up to the present the way is virtually clear for Vic.

There is silence in the camps of A. F. Sandies, T. J. Duffy, Sage Velez and several others. As a matter of fact, it appears to be taken for granted in all parts of the state that Donahay will land on the top of the heap, if a heap is formed—which isn't extraordinarily apparent right now.

Vic will make his campaign issue for the most part the reorganization measure, the emergency clause and the Supreme court decision upholding it. He has begun an attack on the Davis administration from various angles and is demanding action on the question of taxation.

Out-and-out candidates for nomination for office in Allen-co are appearing more slowly than was anticipated some weeks ago. As a matter of fact, the situation is a surprise. With but one commissioner to be elected this year, there is promise of a goodly number of candidates, but thus far only two or three have actually declared themselves for Democratic nomination.

The latest is C. C. Hoffman of Monroe-twp. Hoffman is a farmer, is 45 years old, a firm believer in the principles of Democracy and has never before sought county office. He is willing to take his chances with other aspirants and that's what he'll have to do if he persists in chasing a nomination.

Hoffman has been trustee of his township and a member of the school board. Because of his military service, Ernest C. Ludwig was given precedence as a candidate for the position of postmaster in the village of Anna, Shelby-co. Charles F. Hughes and Mrs. Cleo Meyer were also certified by the civil service commission. Ludwig headed the list and was endorsed by Congressman Cable.

Activity for postoffices is resuming in Mercer-co, a part and parcel of the territory covered by Congressman Cable's spoils system blarney. There are two eligibles for postmaster at St. Henry, the village made famous and given an impetus in growth by the presence of a thriving manure spreader factory which employs a large number of people.

Henry A. Beckman and Julius R. Burns are the candidates. Cable says it's up to the Mercer-co G. O. P. committee to make the next move. He'll recommend the candidate the committee approves. Easy for John there!

Manipulation and policy application has helped to ease the situation at Troy, but Congressman John is still in danger of being caught between the opposing forces backing candidates for the Miami-co town postoffice. Frank H. Rife, former assistant postmaster thru the request of Postmaster Carver, will be transferred to the position of money order and register clerk and J. Wesley Robbins, an office attaché, will be made assistant to Carver.

Robbins was an active candidate for postmaster. So, if he is satisfied to be a mere assistant and can call off his hounds, he has been wanting to annihilate John L. Cable. He'll help some when our fellow citizen seeks reelection, but it's doubtful.

It's easy money for Cable at Conover, Miami-co. Only one candidate for postmaster there, Name's John W. Stapleton. Only eligible certified for the job. Cable is awaiting the endorsement of Stapleton by the Miami-co committee. If there's as easy everywhere, "I would be punkin pie for John L. But 'tisn't."

Mrs. Nellie Beam, Republican, has unseated her husband, William H. Beam, Democrat, as postmaster in Ansonia, Darke-co. The situation was rather complicated, as both took the examination for the place. Mrs. Beam has always been a Republican in her tendencies and since enfranchised has voted the ticket of that party. Hubby has been a Democrat and consequently had to get out.

Perhaps Mrs. Beam will permit Bill to carry the mail between the "pusstuffs" and the "depo," just to keep him from idleness. This Beam!

Now it's the naming of a successor to James R. Clark, district attorney for southern Ohio. Clark retired Saturday. Willis has been unable to get a conference with President Harding, although he has made repeated efforts. Senator Willis seeks the reappointment of C. J. Howard, of Barrenville, while President Harding is said to favor J. Claire Hughes of Piqua.

It isn't often that the tender of resignation by a political job holder is refused, but Joe Mackey of St. Marys is in the position of having his well worded throwup of the job of canal foreman rejected by Eli S. Smith, engineer of the public works of Ohio.

Somewhere, it appears, has been interfering with Joe in the exercise of his duties as a servant of the state, refusing to obey his orders or exceeding their authority—somebody thinks that. So Joe up and writes his resignation. "I refuse to accept it," Smith shoots back. He promises to get rid of those who have been tampering with Joe's prerogatives.

That ought to have satisfied Joe to the extent that he would go on being in readiness to open and close canal lock gates that no longer exist, but it didn't. When he insisted on quitting, Smith acquiesced and named Bruff Hamilton.

Congressman Simeon Fess is still dawdling around, refusing to say whether he will or won't be a candidate for the Republican nomination of United States Senator, to succeed Senator Atlee Pomerene. Somebody will have to help Simeon to a decision soon, the same as Governor Davis was aided. The biggest difficulty Dr. Fess sees ahead is probably Pomerene himself.

He wanted George Stauffer of Ottawa to have the plum, but later George was made a United States marshal, or deputy or something of that sort. Now it's the naming of a successor to James R. Durbin Taunts G. O. P. With "Reunion" Plan

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU
COLUMBUS — (Special) — There ought to be a committee of investigation named to straighten out the facts as to that proposed pre-primary convention of the Republican party in Ohio. Everybody even remotely connected with the original proposition has now denied it except possibly President Warren G. Harding, who long ago told the people of Ohio he "abominates the party" and who probably will ultimately take but little part in it. The poor thing being an abandoned waif, the parents ought to be found and compelled to observe the state law on non-support. It takes a while to believe all the disclaimers that have been filed in all quarters one might come to the conclusion that no such thing ever was proposed or ever had a great name in Ohio. Secretary of State Harry C. Smith, now a full fledged candidate for Governor, will make oath that he had nothing to do with the scheme, Colonel Carmi A. Thompson crosses his heart and says he knew of no such conference ever suggested with his sanction. Major William E. Halley thinks it was imaginary and on down the list of the notable. Only one person, standing a left with the back on the door step and looking anxiously about for someone to take the squalling brat off his hands, seeing that no one wants to claim it. To locate the parent, and compel them to claim their own, a flock of detectives may be engaged and the miscreants brought before the juvenile court.

Apparently, the whole thing has simmered down to Major Halley's proposition to hold a "reunion" to facilitate the state and the nation upon the accomplishments of the party in Columbus and in Washington. And with this suggestion, Colonel William W. Durbin has expressed himself so thoroughly in accord that the idea immediately became unpopular with Halley's associates on the general theory that in political affairs one must do what the other fellow does not want done and fail to do the things he does want done. Now Halley plans a get-together and Durbin co-operates by outlining the agenda and immediately, Halley ceases and determines, as they say in the law courts, concluding he did not want the meeting very much, anyway. Finally, it was the Durbin program that Halley did not like, for he wanted a meeting by sections. First of the people who state and local taxes had been reduced—which he thought might be held in one corner of the Governor's office—then one of all those whose taxes had been increased, providing a place big enough could be found, and finally a meeting of the recovery, assignees, bankrupt trustees, and others brought into special activity under normalcy and finally a great convention of unemployed, to be entertained by a joint debate between Governor Harry L. Davis and Secretary Smith on the referendum.

Laying aside the lighter views, there are plenty of good, hard-headed Republicans who will see merit in Halley's idea that the party have what he terms "an informal and unofficial expression of opinion of the proper position for the party to take on important public questions and issues." The utterance coming from an acknowledged leader of the so-called federal of Harding wing of the party and bearing in mind that the President deems it of extraordinary importance that Ohio be retained in the Republican column this year, there is no doubt of the implication that the Grand Old Party that saved the Union and freed the slave does not know precisely where it stands on the issue of the hour in the state and, confidentially, needs a bit of guidance on the issue before the nation. In an earlier day, one of the party heroes, the martyred James A. Garfield, wrote: "Real political issues cannot be manufactured by the leaders of political parties and real ones cannot be evaded by political parties. The real political issues of the day declare themselves, and come out of the depths of that deep well which we call public opinion." But since then many things have happened and Garfield's words sound strange for those who are seeking light by "an informal and unofficial expression" to learn where the party should stand on important issues and questions, to quote again the modern day disciple of Garfield, McKinley, Hayes and Grant. Why not take a post-card referendum or shake the dice?

The quest for light to guide the feet thru dark and treacherous places, merely demon-traites that there is the keenest of strategies going on over the party position. National Committee Chairman Rud K. Hynick, State Committee Chairman Charles W. Montgomery, Executive Chairman George H. Clark and a lot of the lesser lights in the party want the Republican party to stand foursquare behind the record of Governor Harry L. Davis, asserting that they are not ashamed of it. And there is more to their claim than the personal official course of Governor Davis. For the party gave its official sanction when the Ohio General Assembly followed its shares to the last emergency bill, while the Ohio Supreme court came nobly to bat and made the emergency stick thru the majority vote in the court. Thus, it is not only the executive record they are endeavoring to uphold, but the legislative and judicial record as well. That is what makes the candidacies of Judge Smith and Congressman C. L. Knight seem to partake of the outlay of cash, because neither of them objected to the referendum when the contract was unannounced. Naturally, under Halley's idea, the party position would be determined once and for all and incidentally a measuring stick would be provided for candidates. On a program of upholding Davis, Knight and Smith might be counted out.

Granted that the men of the party of Jackson, Jefferson and Wilson are slow to learn, one gathers from the schemes here that they have appropriated to themselves one lesson from the newswall that has arisen over the Republican pre-primary confab. Whatever other mistakes they make they are not likely to commit the error of getting set for one of those 241 meetings. If someone wants trouble, let him mention such a plan. Up in Cleveland, the Newton D. Baker group did timely put forth the suggestion, but down state the managers threw up their hands in holy horror averring they'd rather go into the worst sort of primary row than have it said they were trying to frame it up for some favorite in a back room. The chiefs have largely taken the position that the primary is free and open and may be after all a smashing good thing, but they are about the last thing that could happen. If there isn't any contest for the Governorship and the only announced candidate, A. V. Donahy, is permitted to walk away with it, that'll be one thing and if some one can go into the primary and beat him out of it that will be another. It will only show who is the stronger, that's all. Apparently, the party thinks it knows where it stands without having to hold a referendum or evolve some new set of principles, or evasions.

If there is any truth in this yarn that comes to Ohio by devious routes about the Ohio Congressional delegation trying to frame up some scheme to keep Ohio people from determining the boundaries of their congressional districts, there will be active reception committees to meet the congressmen when they come home for their Easter vacation. That, unfortunately worse than the emergency laws of the Davis administration. The story that such a thing was planned made the gooseflesh rise on a lot of loyal party members who wondered whether the party men down in Washington are in a conspiracy to lose the state next November. Still, there are confounding bits of evidence that something of the kind has been planned. Had it not been for objections some months ago there would have been created an Ohio commission to handle the proposition, that was too raw, what shall be said of the plan to have congressmen preside at a lot of districts which would up the traditional and well-settled line to serve the exigencies of the 1922 election. If it was a plan, the sunshine of publicity will do wonder for it—in killing it.

Advocates of the re-election of Supreme Court Judge Benson W. Hough, one of the four emergency judges, who is first to face the music of a campaign for vindication, tried to slip over a fast one this week, but the surprise attack failed. The esteemed counsellor-at-law, chancellors in equity and protectors in admiralty of Columbus, having been called together to expire their love and affection for Judge Edgar E. Kinkaid, who became a call to come to the high court, the friends of Judge Hough sought to include a ringing endorsement of his candidacy for re-election. And that's where they missed it. The motion went out without a recent vote as lawyers are sort of diffident about recording themselves on such matters. The excuse for attaching the sitting judge's name to a local candidate was not made quite clear. But it was tried and failed. That is clear. As for Judge Kinkaid, it is argued by Franklin Co. that he has not had a judge since the day of Judge Swan some 60 years ago and is again due. Having in the meantime had Governor and everything but a place on the high court bench. The wonder is that they want it now. As for Judge Hough, his friends recommend the method of Senator Arthur H. Day, of Cleveland, who helped vote over nearly every single emergency that came along, but who now find that he is for protection of the initiative and referendum and against emergency clauses, except where there are real emergencies. May be pretty late in the day to find it out, but then while the lamp, etc., etc.

Far different was the method of Speaker Rupert Rensselaer Beetham, of Cedar Rapids, who presided over the "House of a Dozen Emergencies" in the fatal winter of 1921. At his coming-out party he never mentioned the newly emergency as they say in classic Harrison. He told them that the "business code," a term which does not seem fitting in view of what Expert George Frazer knocked down in getting it up, is all right and that great thing, may be done under it and "business code" is a real business administration. Get that! It makes possible a real business administration. Get that! It makes possible a real business administration! And this after Governor Harry had saved the over-burdened taxpayer: oh so many millions under the blessed law. While others may have failed to note the omission, it did not get by the trained eye of one John Franklin Burke, of Lorain, nemesis of even who could not see the constitutional issue of referendum with a supple tongue. Burke was in the day the Beetham pronouncement read the secular press and in a mild and fatherly way he directed attention to the omission, asserting his belief that he trusted the Republican party would not nominate a candidate with a doubtful record on the referendum and giving the soothing assurance that he thought there is little danger of a mistake in the case of Mr. Beetham. So there?

As a man and a candidate unaffiliated, the crown sad pill must be awarded to Hon. C. Homer Durand, of Coshocton, one of the heavy lifters in the days of the Personal Liberty league. When other candidates were busy he found time to tell the people of Ohio just where he stands on the new thing-a-ma-jig called the light wine and beer amendment which has been gotten up by an association headed by one Martin of Cleveland. He reached no further into the amendment than to find that it provided for beer with a 2.5 percent by weight alcoholic content. He sniffed the air disdainfully. "Why, that's the stuff they fed us during the war," quoth he, "and who wants that?" Moreover, he found fault with the fact that it gives no relief to the wine-takers, for home manufacture of wines has now gone to the point where every one knows that wine runs from 10 to 11 per cent and when it is diluted down to 2.5 it isn't just wine. Durand's following seems to be composed of a right and a left wing. The conservatives would welcome four per cent beer and the radicals demand six. There is a big ultra-mountain gnat in the list of non-intoxicants that would be allowed under his generous sway. And here the candidate observes that he has the latest issue of all, from which no candidate can run away.

Since the current year of political activity is likely to be rich in new terminology, it may be well to recur occasionally to the dictionary by way of keeping straight. All this is made appropos by the remark of Colonel W. Durbin when he referred to the saintly Carmi A. Thompson of Minnesota, Washington, Ironton, Cleveland and other points as a "carpet-bagger." It's a hard name to apply to one with a name like Carmi, for one can almost hear the angels sing at that Christian name. Sounds sort of heavenly, don't you know? Now the Century dictionary of a recent vintage has this definition: "One who travels with a carpet-bag; specifically, a person who takes up his residence in a place, with no more property than he brings in a carpet-bag, with a view of making his way by enterprise." It would seem, too, that there was a contradiction in terms when "millionaire" is prefixed to carpet-bagger, although conceivably a million dollars in securities could be so transported. But Colonel Carmi could never, never get all he has into a bag, unless one as large as the ozone rug, always large enough for an army or a quiet little conference for two. His opponents say he has as many as nine automobiles, and lands, goods, chattels and other things, too numerous to mention. Now this is said neither in criticism of Bill or of Carmi, bless 'em both, but merely to keep the terminology of the campaign straight. A few years ago a doughty Cleveland politician wanted to "unshush his shibboleth" and we don't want things like that to happen this year.

Former service men and women just learned for the first time this week why they ought to be for Congressman C. L. Knight as a candidate for Governor of Ohio. Until a pamphlet came along to tell them that all the former soldiers are really for the statesman of Summit, it had been supposed that Senator Arthur H. Day as a wounded soldier would cop the larger part of the khaki vote, but it isn't true. In studies right on the first page of the pamphlet it tells the people that the soldiers will support Knight because he wanted them again—accepting a cash bonus "and thereby compromise all future claims for pension or compensation that they might have against the government." Then on the other side, there is a list of reasons why the former soldiers should be for Knight. Skimming along thru them, one finds that he does not believe any employer should discharge a former soldier just because he was in the army and that he is "straight-forward and pander to no party or clique" and "cannot be bought" which might be construed to be a doubtful tribute to all the other candidates. Moreover, one learns that it is not a "misnomer" time for the men to ask a bonus, but that if one is paid, "those profiteer millionaires" should pay it. Then, too, "the stands for real 100 per cent Americanism, America run by Americans for Americans" from which one gathers that all the other candidates are Fifth I-handers and would run America for the Chinese and then he was on a draft board in northern Ohio and "refused to exempt any wealthy any more than the poor." Who could greater qualifications in a Governor?

It is amazing what unanimity there is in the press on taxes in these latter days. And the public utilities which are beginning to feel quite keenly the demand for some lowering of their charges, because they are about three times as hard to pay as they were during the war inflation period, lead the outcry. In a recent statement they show that in Ohio in four years their excise taxes increased just 50 per cent. In 1918 the taxes were $4,864,262.68, which grew to $5,596,566.73 in 1919, $6,365,621.07 in 1920 and $7,311,412.17 in 1921. The utilities argue that they pay higher proportionate taxes than any other class of property and are assessed more nearly at 100 cent on the dollar than any other class of property, excepting perhaps a class of property which has 50 per cent of the increase in 1921 when personal property returns in the rural districts slumped off enormously because of the low prices for farm products. Higher taxes, higher rates, save the utilities and it seems to be capable of proof.

Much as the medical profession has done to cheat itself out of fees by advancing public health measures, it is willing to do more and its ministrations take on a critical turn. This remark is made with reference to the Ohio Medical Association in setting out to take a census of all crippled persons more than 16 years of age in Ohio during the week of May 8. Plans for the work are to be laid during the coming convention in Cincinnati May 2, 3 and 4. The purpose is to list such persons who are not self-supporting with the State Department of Education in order that the Bureau of Rehabilitation may canvass them and find some niche in the industrial life wherein they will fit. It has already done this thing for 75 persons and can do as much for many more times 75. It might seem that this was the poorest time to advocate such a plan when efficient man-power is going to waste in prodigious lots because of unemployment, but then the period of depression cannot last forever and some time or other every bit of man power is to be needed. Every person in Ohio ought to be entitled to help the physicians in their self-imposed task.

WATER PLENTIFUL IN LIMA LAKES

No Danger of Shortage—City Has Good Coal Supply.

More than 132,000,000 gallons of water was used by Lima residents for beverage and other purposes during March according to report made by George L. Kirk, chief of stations. The daily consumption for the month for 4,000,000 gallons.

Lima is in no danger of a shortage of water, even if a prolonged drought is experienced, Kirk's report states. There are 1,255,000,000 gallons in storage in the three city lakes.

Lima lake holds 400,000,000 gallons, Lost Creek 765,000,000 gallons and Twin Lakes 120,000,000. Six car loads of coal were unloaded at the city pumping station up to April 1, when a contract with the Lorain Dock and Coal company expired.

The amount of coal on hand, Kirk states, will run the pumping stations until the latter part of August.

Electricity produced by the pumping station during March and consumed by the boulevard lighting system, amounted to 52,900 kilowatts.

Receipts of the water department for March 1934 exceeded those for the same period (one year ago) almost three to one, report of W. E. Booth, secretary, shows.

In the past month the department received $19,759.22, against $7,144.97 in March 1933.

Clean Up and Paint Up

Proclamation

Clean Up and Paint Up and Keep It Up

Know All Men, Women and Children by These Presents:

THAT, Whereas CLEANUP AND PAINT UP CAMPAIGNS have resulted in many advantages to community life throughout the United States,

In Safeguarding Health,
In Promoting Thrift,
In Furthering Fire Prevention,
In Stimulating Civic Pride, and In making the "Home and City Beautiful,"

Now, Therefore be it known that plans have been perfected for a thorough Cleanup and Paintup campaign in LIMA, OHIO, beginning April 1st.

This date to mark the opening of a real campaign of persistent and constructive effort in cleaning up and keeping it up. In this worthy movement we urge each citizen to do his or her part of making our community

CLEAN, HEALTHY, THRIFTY, SAFE and BEAUTIFUL.
HAROLD CUNNINGHAM,
Mayor of Lima.

Never before has a general welfare campaign gripped all classes of people as has our Clean Up and Paint Up Campaign. Everybody—from the Mayor to the little tots—will be busy cleaning up every street, alley, park, public building, office, store, factory, warehouse and all homes, yards, and vacant lots.

This is a mighty good thing for the city in general, as well as for every individual. It is making folks realize that we are one great big family, and we are learning to work and play to gether in the kind of spirit that makes a happy, contented and prosperous community.

We cannot have a bigger city until we make it a better place in which to live and do business, and one of the big objects of this campaign is to make the whole community spotless and prosperous, and keep it that way.

The trash piles, dump heaps, and old buildings that have become fire traps must go. Rundown properties should be thoroughly cleaned up and painted up inside and out. Then property values will be restored or increased. Vacant lots should be cleaned up and converted into playgrounds and thrift gardens. Stagnant pools drained and filled. Mosquitoes, flies, rats, mice, and other disease-carrying pests exterminated.

Read this section for the news of the campaign. It is the most practical and popular thing the city has ever undertaken, and it promises to become a permanent feature of our civic life. We are going to clean up, paint up, and keep it up.

Each Resident Must Have His or Her Own Rubbish Hauled Away.

Do Not Place
It on the Curb or in the Street.

THE CAMPAIGN IDEA

Said one youngster to another on the street yesterday, "Don't drop that paper on the sidewalk, for somebody will have to pick it up." That's the idea, for old and young, that the Clean Up and Paint Up Campaign is bringing home to everybody.

As General Chairman of the Clean Up and Paint Up Campaign, Commissioner Earl Rohu is to be commended for his splendid direction of the Executive Committee, and especially in assigning to each division definite and important tasks. City Manager Bingham has put aside other official duties, and since the start of this campaign, has kept the city departments busy. The fire, street, health and police departments are his allies in doing a vigorous work in which they are supported by all classes of citizens.

The Federated Woman's Clubs are strongly advocating the planting of trees and shrubbery.

The Boy Scouts, under the direction of Scout Executive Stallsmith, have been divided into patrol squads and assigned to districts which cover the entire city. These young soldiers have a fine responsibility, and they are going to make good, as usual.

Owing to the continually increasing demand for Paint, since opening our new retail department about six weeks ago, we find we cannot give our attention to both the sale of wall paper and paints, hence we are closing out the wall paper department entirely.

To be sure of quick sale, we have cut the prices in many cases even below present wholesale cost. We have a very good selection new Spring patterns, but urge you to come early in order to secure the best choice. We are continuing our paint business, only on a larger scale. We must have more room for our paint stock at once. This great price reduction on all our wall paper stock should move everything in a few days.

LIMA OPENS CLEAN UP AND PAINT UP WEEK

City Calls Upon Residents to Clean Up Their Yards and Alleys During This Week. Everybody to Co-operate

It costs more to be dirty than to keep clean.

Consider the toll of disease, fire and depreciation, thru filth, disorder and neglect, and compare it with the small expense of ridding a city of the menacing forces.

Lima opened its big clean up week Saturday, and will pursue the campaign thru the week. The week will be observed thruout Ohio, especial attention being given to fire hazards.

Along with clean-up week a drive to cart away a winter's accumulation of dirt, and to paint up and brighten up the city.

Dust and grime, are said to be responsible for more than 50 per cent of the wear and tear on clothing and house furnishings.

When these facts are considered it is not surprising that people all over the country have been thoroughly aroused to the necessity for community cleanliness.

There are more than 7,000 cities in the country today that are conducting annual clean up and paint up weeks. They are making common cause to make their city as clean as the cleanest home.

Housewives in Lima realize that dirty streets and yards are a burden on their time and purse.

Dust from the streets blows into the home. It lodges in carpets and draperies. It makes housecleaning an endless task.

No home owner can clean up the entire community. But during a general clean up week with an entire city co-operating toward a common end, the task can be accomplished.

Municipal authorities are among the strongest advocates of a clean up week. It makes a city more sanitary, eliminates fire risks, increases real estate prices, and the self respect of citizens. It makes the city a more desirable place to live.

Every one can take part in the campaign. That is what makes it a truly community affair.

Women's clubs have been a strong factor in the past, and will be active in the campaign here during the coming week.

School children are a wonderful help. They can work wonders around their homes, and neighborhoods.

The Boy Scouts of Lima are to assist in the program of the week.

A liberal use of paint not only during clean up week but thruout the spring will make a different city of Lima.

Lima is constantly seeking new industry, and new citizens. Well painted homes and business houses are sure to give a visitor a good impression of our city.

A discriminating man or woman who visits a dirty city for the first time is sure to see the eye-rows. There is nothing about dirty streets, faded and run down houses, or unkempt alleys to attract a stranger.

On the other hand a clean progressive looking city is bound to bring praise.

Lima has a great many men who can be well employed in cleaning yards and alleys, painting, and repairing.

The actual money spent on such work, is small. But the increased enjoyment of living, a civic pride is a thousand times worth the effort spent.

A house can depreciate sadly in three years. Now that it is painted, a big load of worry is off your mind.

After all, the cost of painting and varnishing is insignificant in comparison with the cost of repairing and replacing property.

TODAY it costs less to paint than it did. The cost of materials has led in the downward economic trend of manufactured products. But no matter what it costs, the fact remains that it always costs more not to paint than to paint. Rust and rot go on till you check them. The logical time to paint and varnish is NOW.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

THERE has been no deterrent in the slow, but cumulative, upturn of business during the past week. Despite what was expected to be a bear argument, the coal strike went into effect without rocking the industrial boat. While it is sheer madness to think a coal strike of any duration will not affect business, yet the strike is being discounted. This probably is the belief that a settlement will come before coal stocks are depleted.

Railroads reporting for February and car loadings for March forecast not only better earnings for the transportation, but that business in all lines is better. Ralls have been steadily advancing in the New York market, with New York Central leading the way. Rumor credits Pennsylvania with being able to restore its usual $2 rate before the end of the year. Steel shares were firm, with fractional gains on the week. Liberty bonds steadily advance, the closing Saturday showing the fourth, the largest outstanding issue, within $1.14 of par. Liberties should go to a premium unless halted by the bonus bill.

Here in Lima, business men see in the steady advance of Lima Locomotive Works stock of both issues, something more definite than a mere stock advance. There is a persistent belief that when railroads let loose long needed locomotive orders, that the local plant will be found to have a goodly number. This means employment of well paid mechanics. Motor business is also showing optimistic trends, railway shops remain about stalemate.

Building costs, as reported by expert economists, are believed on the bottom, for this year at least. It is not probable that further declines will occur; more probable that with the open season approaching, costs will increase. Those who plan to build, should be letting contracts; and those who have vacant lots are always financially improving themselves, by putting something leaseable upon them.

Banks are still short of loanable funds; seven per cent is the rate generally asked. Building and loans have made little or no accumulations of funds. The present is safe; the future has a silver lining.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

OFFICIALS of Lima again are discussing the daylight saving plan. Each spring since the war, when this plan worked satisfactorily because it was general and everyone cooperated as they did in other things to win the war, the subject has come up. Once it was tried—and failed.

The plan to save daylight was put in force two years ago by the city council. It lasted only a short time and the action was rescinded. Tampering with the clocks caused more confusion than any one thing attempted in recent years. Its disadvantages so far outweighed its advantages that council was forced by public opinion to go back to standard time.

The same confusion will result now if the city commission attempts to turn the clocks ahead an hour by official decree. It is certain that the farmers will not cooperate. Some organizations of farmers already are on record as opposed to it. The argument concerning what time the clock in the court house tower should show undoubtedly will be revived if the city orders daylight saving.

It is possible for any who desire to complete their day's work an hour earlier to get the same results by starting one hour ahead of their present schedule. It would be far better for any industry which is inclined towards the daylight saving plan to allow clocks to remain as they are and simply permit their employees to start at an earlier hour.

The plan, far from general in Ohio, would not be worth the trouble and confusion it would cause in Lima. The city commission will do well to refrain from tampering with time pieces here.

NOW GET BUSY

LIMA has had its Cleanup Week parade. The display event, inaugurating the opening of a period of special endeavor for a cleaner city, was indicative of the spirit that is laying fast hold of people in all parts of the city.

Now that the parade is history and the week of special endeavor has been officially opened, the next move is to carry into full effect the program as outlined. The first day of the campaign might properly be termed play day. Bright and early Monday morning the feds of dirt and debris, of disorder and untidiness, should get busy in applying the active principles of the campaign.

There is no question but that all parts of the city stand in need of an application of the general idea of the special event. Too many of us have been in the position of the Arkansas Traveler in the matter of clean up, paint up, repair up. When it rained, the famous character of Arkansas literature was unable to repair a leak in the roof. When it wasn't raining, he could see no need of making the repair.

Now that winter has passed into history and spring is officially here, it is time for the cleanup germ to make war on the disease germ. Elimination of winter accumulation of debris, removal of piles of ash, clearing away litter, straightening up broken down fences, removing fire hazards and using the paint brush liberally, are just a few of the many things that can and should be done to give the city generally a better appearance.

The big thing about it all is this: If the Cleanup Week program is to be permitted to end with talking about it only, the effort will be useless, in the matter of tangible results. We have had two weeks of talk. Now let's get down to the work. Every citizen has faith in Lima. Each and every one is proud of the city in which he lives and has his well-being. Each of us ought to have sufficient pride to aid in making it a more attractive and inviting place.

Every citizen ought to be enlisted in the army being organized to make war on dirt and disorder.

ACROSS THE BORDER

NOTHING separates our country from Canada except an imaginary line about 3000 miles long. Crossing that line, you would hardly notice that you'd changed countries, except for customs, immigration and prohibition officials.

Canada and "the States" are almost Siamese Twins—in common language, form of government, business methods and other customs of daily life.

Beginning today, both countries celebrate Canadian Week, to promote better mutual understanding.

Across the border, the two neighbors exchange friendly greetings. The rest of the world, burdened with misunderstanding and armaments, must envy us as they ponder that for more than a century there hasn't been a single fortification along the 3000-mile Canadian-American frontier.

WHAT IS FAME?

COLONEL DRAKE is credited through the oil industry as the driller of the first American oil well, in 1859. Thirty years before that, an oil well was drilled at Burkesville, Kentucky, and came in a "gusher." But Drake really started the modern oil industry.

Look him up in the encyclopedia. You will not find him mentioned, except incidentally in the article on petroleum.

The encyclopedia lists 10 Drakes—poets, sculptors, authors, lawyers, doctors, explorers.

That's one thing wrong with history and education—not enough attention to inventors and discoverers of the useful and necessary things of life.

COME DOWN TO EARTH

—BY FRANK A. KAPP—

FROM my office window I see five men on top of a neighboring building. They are putting on a new tar and gravel roof. One of the men sneers the liquid tar on the roof with a big brush. Another scatters the gravel with his shovel. Two of them are sparring with each other over at one side. The fifth sits on a pile of sacks filled with gravel—to keep them from being blown off the roof I guess. Five are being paid by someone for the work that two are doing.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

The other day I stopped in at one of the clubs in town. Up in a card room seven well-known men were seated around a table playing poker.

Two presidents, two salesmen, a vice president, an advertising manager and a lawyer. It was half past 2 in the afternoon.

Across the court from my office I see a young typewriter salesman sitting with his feet on his desk, and puffing away at a cigar. He seems to be meditating. He is probably wondering where business has gone to.

My typewriter is about ready for the junk heap. If an aggressive salesman were to call on me today he could probably sell me a new machine.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

I called on a business man yesterday and took along a comprehensive sales plan for his consideration.

After I had been in his office three minutes he offered me a drink. He keeps it handy in his desk.

Then he began a discourse on prohibition which he ended by asking me if I knew of any "reliable" bootleggers.

When I failed to present my plan he said he wasn't in any mood to talk business. Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

POLLY AND PAUL --AND PARIS

—BY ZOE BECKLEY

GOODBY CUBBYFLAT

Polly and Paul stood in the living room, shorn now of its personal touches, and with trunks sitting around with that solemn expression that closed and strapped trunks have. They were to sail next day on "La France."

"How I hate to leave it, dear," Polly was saying with a little tender smile. "Yet I want to go home—"

"We'll come back, Hon! I'll be president of Sims & Brady, or something, and we'll have a swell butch out at Maison Lafitte, all full of gardens and garages and guest-rooms and—"

hour before quitting time they begin to get ready to quit. Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

A banker passes by at 11:15 each morning. Comfortably enclosed in his limousine he is going in the direction of his place of business. Perhaps he goes each day to call on his customers in the outlying districts. Perhaps he thinks it won't make much difference when he reaches his desk. Perhaps.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

There's a bobbed-haired stenographer in somebody's office across from mine. When the boss isn't looking she fusses with her hair, pouts her lips at a little hand mirror, and daubs at her cheeks. When he goes out she doesn't work, she doesn't read, she doesn't knit. She just sits and sits.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

The day was quite warm. A young man stopped his car out in front to adjust his carburetor to the marked change in temperature. Within five minutes it was necessary to call the police to clear the street and the sidewalk.

Nearly a hundred people were more vitally concerned with watching a young man adjust his carburetor than with going about their business.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

A manufacturer somewhere whose plant was running at about 25 per cent of capacity was recently shown how he could gather in considerably more business by investing $840 in a special campaign.

But he turned down the opportunity because he "couldn't afford it"—he had just bought six cases of booze at post-Volstead prices.

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

A friend of mine has a patented automobile accessory which everyone says is a "gold mine." For four years now he has been trying to get some manufacturer to adopt it as standard equipment.

When I suggested that there were already 7,000,000 car-owners who were good prospects, many of whom would buy if given the opportunity, he said, "Oh, I know that; but it's too much work!"

Yet we wonder what's the matter with the world today!

And so the last evening in the cubbyflat was gay and happy. They toasted one another, and the cubbyflat, and "La Belle France," and "The Good Old U. S. A.," and everything and everybody they could think of. And they swore eternal reunions and everlasting friendships and good lucks and happy returns and bon voyages and all the dear old time-honored, heartwarming, loyalities that mellow the spirit and sweeten life.

"It was good to have come," said Polly, "and now that you two are here in the cubbyflat it'll be good to come back!"

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

INFECTED WOUNDS

Whenever we think of wounds most of us think of danger due to great loss of blood. In ninety-nine of one hundred wounds bleeding is not dangerous.

In every wound there is danger of infection.

In every wound one of two things happen. On the one hand, a wound may heal quickly with no danger to the patient's life or health. In this case the wound has not become infected.

On the other hand, the wound may become red and angry. It will throb with pain and the patient may have chills and fever. This is an infected wound. Blood poisoning may follow.

Germs cause infection. The germs are not the same as in contagious diseases. In wounds they are called pus forming germs. As in contagious diseases, they do not have it all their own way; the white cells in our blood defeat some of the pus germs and prevent them from doing harm.

Some germs will undoubtedly be driven into the body in every wound. Our object should be to prevent the introduction of more.

Fortunately pus germs do not float about in the air, so there is no danger in exposing a wound to the air. They are found on our hands, on knives, scissors, clothing and in water.

Surgeons have found a way to kill them, however. Advantage has been taken of this knowledge to prepare surgeons' gauze that is free from germs.

The gauze is simply cheesecloth that has been put thru a special process to kill the germs. It can be bought in any drug store. It should be used to cover every wound, and should be kept on hand in every household.

Never wash a wound, for pus germs are found in water.

Instead, put on a pad of gauze at once, being very careful not to touch that part of it which is to go on the wound.

If you have no gauze and cannot procure any quickly, you can take a folded towel, recently laundered, and hold it 10 minutes, squeezing out the water, but not touching the surface to go on the wound.

Firm out the clouds or the ambient air
And thus please the Legion in every old region
With never a taxpayer turning a hair.

Some method political Suits the critical
To raise us, the billions we're anxious to raise Oh can't there be shown us
Some magical bonus
Which everyone gets and which nobody pays?

For now we are stalling, in danger of falling Between two decidedly different stools
If taxes go higher the taxpayers' ire
May bring us defeat ere the heat of it cools;
But—here's where the onus is—Lacking their bonuses
Ex-service men may be out for our skins;

Oh ain't there no chances
Of running without risk
So nobody loses and everyone wins?
Our conscience is garnished with 'Motives untarnished,
We're doing our duty like untrammelled souls.

(But it would be pleasant if we knew, at present, What action the voters will take at the polls.)
Oh gosh it is terrible, Almost unbearable—
This problem is giving us cold chills and sweats;
Won't somebody loan us
Or give us a bonus
Which nobody pays and which every one gets?

Vigor of Youth In A New Discovery

Science Produces a Vitalizer Superior to Famous Gland Treatment—MAGIC POWERS OF A BARK FROM AFRICA.

Have you lost your youth, vigor and "pep"? Don't worry. Science has discovered to the most discussed "gland" and "monkey gland" treatment. Anyone can now quickly and easily regain the vitality and eagerness of youth and do it in the privacy of the home.

The principle of this is an extract from the bark of an African tree. It is said to be the most amazing invigorator ever discovered. Combined with it are other tonic and vitalizing elements of proved merit. In most cases the compound produces marked improvement in a day or two, and in a short time the vitality is raised, the circulation improves and the glow of health is felt in every part.

The laboratories producing this new vitalizer is called Re-Bild Tabs, are so confident of its power that they offer new customers a large $2 supply for only $1 and guarantee to refund the money if the remedy fails to give results in one week.

Any reader of this paper may test the new discovery without risk. Send no money, but just your name and address, to the Re-Bild Laboratories, 507 Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo., and a full $2 treatment of Re-Bild Tabs will be mailed. On delivery, pay the balance only $1 in postage. If not delighted with the results at the end of a week, notify the laboratories and your money will be refunded in full. Do not hesitate about accepting this offer, as it is fully guaranteed.—Adv.

SEES RUIN IN THE FLAPPER

Red Light Districts on Rubber Tires, He Says(By FRANK GETTY)
NEW YORK—(United Press)— Modern woman will cause the next world war.Dr. J. Frank Norris, "Texas tornado" revivalist, Saturday cut loose with a powerful blast against the foibles of American women."The cause of the next war struts up Fifth-av today," Dr. Norris said,
"and her sister out on Main-st, apes her.""The flapper will bring about this country's downfall, just as surely as Delilah caused Sampson's. Every great war has been traced to the depravity of women and they never were as bad as they are today.""When a woman shows her knees you can see her finish. And that of the nation as well.""Girls think more of their eyelashes and 'nude' hosiery than they do of decency; home life is broken up; respect for law goes with it; wholesale iniquity follows; then—war.""We cursed the Kaiser for starting the last war; but we 'pet' the cause of the next.""Our statements are scrapping the battleships; they ought to be slapping the flappers. If I had my way, every girl under age would be in bed by 9 o'clock at night.""The modern girl is 100 times worse than the girl of the last century. And the country girl is just as bad as her city cousin. Once upon a time country girls were pure, but gasoline spoiled that. We have closed up our red light districts and put them on rubber tires.""Women smoking are indecent.
The spark from a woman's cigaret is going to touch off a conflagration that will destroy this country within 50 years.""Jazazel was the worst woman in the world. She was the first she did before she died was to paint her face and then the dogs ate her."Three Unusual found for radio—the mysterious they use them to link up units of the radio-phones furnish dance music or and puts the receiver to his ear.He listens to news and crop re-

Dobbin from one end of the field to the other.And now and then the broadcasting stations are interrupted by Mrs.

the house. She calls Talbot when it's time for dinner.The Talbotts have scrapped the old up an antenna atop the family diver.He invites his friends to ride over the country roads with him, meanwhile treating them to a concert via a new type of aerial he can put in-present clumsy contrivance on poles above.

THE WISCONSIN BARBER

Floyd Hanson, Neillsville (Wis.) barber, says he can hear radio messages with naked ear.He's rigged up an apparatus to heighten the ear's hearing ability and now he says he can hear messages sent out on any wave length.Hanson applies to his ear a horn of insulating material across which are strung a number of silver wires.At the rear of the attachment is a compensating arc to clarify sound reproduction. There's a hidden detector in the back of the insulating medium.NEW YORK—(Special)—Two continents are watching to see whether the world's most patient bridegroom will be rewarded next month.The young man who has won this title is Allister McCormick.
The young woman whose four postponements of marriage have conferred it upon him is Mary Landon Baker.Altho Miss Baker has put off their wedding for the fourth time, McCormick still waits forbearingly for her.Miss Baker is now in California, McCormick is in London, and she has made known her intention to sail from New York April 11, to marry him in England. Here's the story of their halting romance:

CHAPTER 1

Mary, the daughter of a wealthy Chicago banker and broker, and Al-lister, the son of L. Hamilton McCormick, a relative of the McCormick family of Harvester fame, were childhood sweethearts.They were in amateur theatricals together, played tennis and motored and rode together, and planned to marry in May, 1921. But Mary was seized with "nervitis" and the date was set forward to Jan. 2, 1922.

CHAPTER 2

Chicago's Gold Coast thronged the Fourth Presbyterian Church. Clergyman, organist, caterer and guests were ready. A hundred thousand dollars worth of wedding presents had poured into the Baker home.
Congratulatory telegrams were arriving. The organist was getting tired playing the prelude and guests were getting impatient.Four o'clock. Came news there'd be "no wedding today."The church emptied. Gossip, not the "Bridal March," was in the ears of the crowd.Mary was ill, they said at the Baker home.

Allister, waiting at the McCormick home, had nothing to say.

CHAPTER 3

Gossips hinted that Mary was in love with Barry Baxter, English actor, and she had sent him this telegram: "When I put on my wedding dress I found I could not go thru with it."Baxter denied it. Mary denied it.
Allister denied it.Said Alfred London, Mary's NNUU Said Alfred London Baker, Mary's father: "My daughter's strength was note equal to the ceremony."Came this statement: "Miss Baker wishes to say her physician has prescribed a complete rest and change for her, so she is going west to recuperate. Mr. McCormick, her fiancé, is going to England. Miss Baker will join him in the spring and be married quietly in London."CHAPTER 4 Mary goes to California.
Allister, accompanied by Henry Channon his best man, sails for England.Says Allister: "Mary is still my fiancée. The wedding will take place abroad this spring, March or April at the latest."CHAPTER 5 Mary obtains steamer reservations to sail Feb. 28. But on Feb. 8 she conceals them. No reason is given for the postponement. It is said she will sail later.CHAPTER 6
March 21 dawn. Mary is still inCalifornia, Allister in England.
Again she cancels her steamer reservations. No reason is given, but it is announced that she positively will sail April 11 and that the nuptials (To be continued April 11.)Mary Landon Baker has postponed marrying Allister McCormick (inset) four times. The new date is "some time in April."ACTIVITIES OF

SENTENCEDCommitted to Federal Prison—
Alex Miller Under BondThree Lima men, G. L. Morningstar, Harry Bert and Albert Victory, were each sentenced to 13 months in federal prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, Saturday in the federal court at Toledo, by Judge Killits.They pleaded guilty with Howard Vanhorn and Alex Miller, also of this city, the latter a junk dealer at 425
S. Central-ave, to charges in connection with the theft in January of over 2,000 pounds of pigiron from an interstate railroad shipment in Lima.Neither Miller nor Vanhorn have been sentenced, according to the former's attorney. Miller arrived home Saturday, having been released on $1,500 bond for several weeks to arrange his business affairs.Miller admitted his guilt on a charge of buying the stolen pigiron.
L. E. & W. railroad detectives alleging a big part of it was disposed of thru him.Judge Killits said local bankers, judges and others had written to him concerning Miller's reputation. He assented to a temporary release.SEMENOFF TELLS WHY HE'S HEREHead of "All-Siberian" Government Hopes for Union

By PHILIP SINNOTT

VANCOUVER, B. C. — Two great impulses caused Gregoroff Semenov, self-styled head of the "All-Siberian" government, and leader of Cos-sack anti-bolshevik forces in Siberia, to come to America.He, with his wife, is at a hotel here preparing to resume the journey U. S. immigration officials temporarily halted."In me you see the representative of the Siberian people, collectively," he said. "And also, I want to dis-prove any charges against my wartime activities."Semenoff, widely denounced as leader in ruthless bandit warfare in Siberia, looks far different. He stands about 5 feet 10 inches, is slightly bald, apparently in his forties and has a silky mustache.His car-jar in Siberia was a stormy one following the revolution and later execution of Admiral Kolchak.His storm clouds interfered with his free movements in Japan and later in the United States.United States immigration officials wanted to know all about the "visitor." He was quizzed about charges made by the army intelligence service in Siberia, that Semenoff troops attacked and hampered American forces during the allied occupation.Finally he was allowed to proceed into America—but not to stay.
He is listed as "in transit," and will go to Washington, D. C., and thence to a port for Paris."I hope to unite the Siberian people under a new Siberian republic," he explains. "I am going to Washington and Paris, where I expect to raise money to aid our cause."What forces he expects to assist him in America he does not say, but frankly admits he will work with members of the old Russian Czarist party in Paris to raise funds.BLUEM'S Within the Reach of Every Woman Are the New Fleur-de-Lis Blouses
Freshly Arrived for Spring Wear—

THE thing that has been chosen to give a name to the finest hand-made blouses on the market is the frail and tender yellow fleur-de-lis, the national flower of France. And it is a true interpretation, too, for all the daintiness that France and the Frenchwomen inspire and demand of beautiful apparel is embodied in Fleur de lis blouses. They are made entirely by hand, of fine voile, and the laces used are of the choicest patterns and workmanship. The seams, the drawn work, the stitching -- everything is made entirely by hand! You can fancy the extremely good style that would be in the appearance of a blouse made in this way. The nimble fingers of the French are the inspiration of the making of the blouse, and the good taste of the discriminating Frenchwoman gives it its distinctive styling.

But when you have inspected the blouses, and observed the fineness of the whole makeup of them, you will be astonished at the unusually low prices. They range from $4.50 upward.

And they wear so much better than silk, which costs so much more. We are glad to show you these blouses, for there are models elaborate enough to grace the tea room, and smart enough in their simplicity to be worn with homespuns.

We now have a selection of them on display in our Elizabeth St. window. Do not fail to see it.

Facts About Heating Your Home

In the past five years heating systems have gone under a radical change. It used to be, the big bulk, smokey furnaces or clumsy steam heating outfits. They would not only be hard to regulate, but consume much more fuel than they should and would not throw off the maximum amount of heat, especially on windy days.

But in recent years, this has all been changed, especially in the Multi-Port Vapor steam or hot water heating outfits. The American Radiator Co., one of the largest in the world, has been one of the chief causes for this change.

The modern vapor, steam or hot water heating outfits can now be installed in the home, office or public buildings, garages, etc. that will save one-third of the fuel bill over the old time heating outfits. This has been proven many times where the American Radiators have been installed. Not only do they save on fuel, but the sizes have been reduced considerably, until now they are more of an ornament in the home than a heating outfit. They are now being made to fit in almost any sized out-of-the-way corner.

For the past fourteen years, The Jones-Kinn Co., 414 N. Main St., which is one of the oldest heating establishments in Lima, have handled The American Radiator products, which consists of the multi-port vapor, steam or hot water heating systems, for all classes of buildings, from the small two room apartment, to the larger office buildings.

Their work has always been highly satisfactory, for their employees are all skilled mechanics. This in itself insures the highest grade work. They have not confined their work solely to Lima, but are installing heating and ventilating systems all over the northwestern part of the state, having just completed three schools in Bellefontaine and Stryker, and have now under construction large schools at Wadsworth and Portia.

CALL ISSUED TO INDEPENDENT TRY-OUTS FOR SUNDAY

PROMISING PLAYERS BEING SIGNED

SPRING will officially be ushered in next Sunday when all aspirants who seek berths on the Lima Independents' baseball club hike to Murphy-st park for the initial work-out of the season. Manager Bernie Halloran caused a general rush for the arduous task when he made the announcement today.

All ball players, whether would-be, has-beens or stars, are invited to don the harness and be reviewed by the local generalissimo of the national pastime. A considerable number of youngsters are expected to tryout. Nothing would be more pleasing to fans than to see several youthful bays ruthlessly discovered.

Weather conditions caused improvement work to slow up at Murphy-st park last week, but carpenters will be added to the construction force Monday. The imitable Cook, twins, Pete and Repeat, will trim up the rough spots.

"LEFTY" DELMAR SAYS HE WILL JOIN

Halloran has been assured by Delmar, youthful Dayton hurler, that he agrees to commence the season with Lima. The Gem City lad has turned down several minor league offers and in his home-town circle is considered a possibility for the big show.

MANAGEMENT STALKING "BIG BILL" HINCHMAN

The management is now trailing on the heels of "Big Bill" Hinchman, former Pittsburgh National league star, last season in the Coast League.

Like other home lovers, Hinchman has decided to give up professional ball this season and the backers of the local club have had some encouragement in the direction of getting the big fellow's name on parchment.

Hinchman is being sought to captain the club and play either an infield or outfield position.

BRESNAHAN AND BECKER SOUGHT FOR INFIELD

Connie Bresnahan is almost without a doubt, the ball business says. Countie is filling a good position in Toledo, which, plus the contract offered him by the Independents, has so far caused him to turn his optics from the minor league show. It is thought his contract will be delivered at local headquarters this week.

Halloran is after another infielder—Marty Becker by name. Marty resides in Tiffin and is a sweet runner of the paths and a slugger without stint. He played here in 1918, but since that time has managed a club in the New England league. He was at one time with the New York Giants and is capable of playing any infield position.

The need of a good infield will be felt the most. One extra man will have to be secured because of the departure soon of Jack Malloy, a third sacker on the club last season, to other parts.

LANDSCAPE OF SOME FIGHTERS IS TOO THICK AND WELL-KEPT

"Why, oh why, don't they cut their hair?"

A fan, sitting in the bald head row at a fight card, raised the query after five rounds of agony trying to figure out if a boxer was fighting the other man or his hirsute adornment.

Peering out from behind his luxuriant foliage, hanging low over the forehead and hindering his vision at each shake of the head, the fighter looked like the wild man from Borneo.

Vainly did the fans coax him to tuck the cowlicks behind his ears. He wouldn't listen—and absorbed a fearful beating.

Take heed, young aspirants to ring glory! Do not cultivate a coltura a la Wally Reid if you would be a fighter!

Seconds have worried themselves to a razor edge of nervousness trying to pat those pretty tendrils down and make 'em stay put. But they wouldn't, rubber bands and tape notwithstanding.

In a recent fight a fan estimated an embryo boxer hit himself oftener on the head in a vain endeavor to subdue his hair, than his opponent. Why this wasted energy; this extravagant waste of motion? We do not know, fans.

"He would rather take a beating than have his hair mussed" was often said of Frankie Mason, ex-champ. Frankie got away with it, but, oh, some of these huns!

Charley Maxwell, well known Lima boxing critic, knows a boxer, the moment he sees how he has his hair dressed.

"That man," said Charley recently, indicating a boxer in his corner with a hand of tape around his head to keep the precious cowlicks unruffled, "will get his."

Sure enough. The owner of the nuclear mop lost the band. The bushes fell down and while he was trying to get his bearings the other fellow walloped him to the canvas from behind. Curtain and smelling salts.

Go West, young fighters; also, submit to hirsute decapitation.

POSTPONE WINDUP

It was impossible the finish up the Lima Church league basketball league scheduled Saturday, owing to the inter-county tournament at the Y. M. C. A. The windup was postponed a week. The Grace All-Stars lead by one game, and if they should lose in the final round it will cost them first place in event Trinity wins, as percentages would stand at 736 to 733 in favor of the Methodist.

CHI-SOX ARE NOT CONSIDERED DANGEROUS

IMPROVED pitching is the only hope of the White Sox in the 1922 American League race. Outside the box no improvements have been made and the betterment of the pitching is a problem that will be solved only after the championship season is well under way.

Just now Charles Robertson seems the best bet of the spring work. He is a right hander who was with the club in 1918 and was sent to Minneapolis several times, only to be brought back in the autumn and shipped out in the spring.

Robertson performed effectively against the Giants this spring. He has a lot of "stuff" and knows how to work.

Don Jose Acosta, sent to the Sox via the waiver route from the Athletics, looks good in comparison with the other Sox fingers. Acosta is the Cuban who was with Washington for several seasons. Griffith has a bug for big men and worked the Cuban only occasionally. The little man seems to have arrived.

The third best pitching prospect is Leverette, last year with Fort Smith, Ark. He is a powerful youth, a natural ball player. He is a right hander.

John Russell, a powerful left hander, is considered a regular. He was with the Sox last season, but did not take his work seriously. Russell kept in shape last winter and worked in the California Winter League. He is a finished workman and no doubt will work every fourth day, providing some weakness not now apparent does not develop.

WILL NOT GET INVITATIONS TO COUNTY MEET OLYMPICS WILL BE REPEATED

(BY HENRY L. FAURELL)

NEW YORK — America has too much money to get the Olympic games for years to come, according to Frederick W. Rubien, secretary of the A. A. U.

Walle talking at a meeting of the Metropolitan Association last night, Rubien said no city in the United States should get worked up over the prospect of staging the games, because it would be a false alarm.

Sentiment among the European nations, he said, is that America has so much money, she should do most of the traveling and that the games should be kept on the other side of the water.

In building a stadium and getting ready for the games, Los Angeles has gone ahead without receiving any encouragement from the athletic authorities in this country, he added.

In his position as the dictator of amateur athletics, Rubien ought to know what he is talking about, but it seems he differs somewhat from Baron De Coubertin, president of the international Olympic committee, who indicated that the United States not only had a good chance to get the next games, but would get them if France defaulted. Even the American authorities gave no encouragement, Los Angeles could not be blamed for proceeding with plans when De Coubertin announced it as alternate.

The only two High schools of Alton-co responded to the invitation to participate in a county track and field meet here late in May, the local committee, including faculty managers, coaches and principals, are not discouraged.

It was designed to close the entries April 1, but follow-up letters will be sent out Monday, again asking for representation from Vaughnsville, Lafayette, Bluffton, Spencerville and other towns where first grade High schools are located.

GOMER IS SURE

Gomer announced definitely she will get in. Coach C. G. Lippin, working with a field of raw material, is developing some sprinters, hurdlers and jumpers who may make a good showing in the 12 events scheduled.

Dolphins will not enter. That was announced definitely.

Should the county tourney slip, the meet will be converted into an intramural event, South High school against Central. Close to 150 students turned out at Central and a similar number at the Southern camp.

CAGE PRELIMINARIES CLOSING

Basketball preliminaries for the annual athletic competition between the Lima major schools are closing. Track will occupy the Hineight next.

HYMIE TREKS HOMEWARD

(BY JACK McMAURIE)

NEW YORK — Hymie Gold is dusting back to San Francisco, Hymie had a rough time during a short career in the eastern ring and he beat it for the coast without saying goodbye until he got to Chicago.

Hymie is better known as Oakland Jimmy Duffy, a young lightweight, who made a great name in the four rounders out on the coast and who came east to get a heartless deal from a pair of fast-moving New York managers.

GOLD RUNS AMUCK

Hymie first ran into the bumps against the New York boxing commission, the esteemed members of the board telling him that he wasn't Oakland Jimmy Duffy in New York, that he was Hymie Gold or nothing.

WANT HIM FREED

BY HENRY L. FAURELL

NEW YORK — Grown from a little "here and there" talk, a loud voiced clamor is now being raised here for the parole of Babe Ruth, the well-known barnstormer and better known swat king.

The "big Bam" got five weeks from Judge Landis for violating a generally disregarded rule against barnstorming and the New York fans want the suspension lifted in part or in whole.

No one knows where it started or who started it, but a petition is going around, getting names under an appeal to Commissioner Landis "to have a heart."

Letters are also being mailed in large numbers to the commissioner presenting the argument that the suspension of Ruth is not hurting him, but it is inflicting a lot of damage on the club owners, an immediate party in the affair.

SICK YANKS:

Others are pointing out that several members of the New York Giants, including Irish Mendenhall, George Kelly and Johnny Rawlings played ball all winter on the Pacific coast without being fined or suspended and in dignified terms they are inquiring "How come?"

There is little doubt that the club will be the only victim of the suspension as enough sentiment exists in New York that "if he doesn't play until May 20, we won't go until May 20"—a thing about a big decrease in attendance with the accompanying drop in revenue.

LANDIS CAN'T CRAWLISH

Landis scarcely can step back from his original stand, even if it should become a national demand that he allow Ruth to play from the start of the season. He takes the stand that Ruth is not bigger than baseball and if he doesn't force him to abide by the rules, he might as well step down and out of the chair.

ELKS TO NAME OTHERS

So far Roy Enoch and "Dutch" Reeder are the only two cited to represent the Elks, but one or two others will be named.

A total of 100 names will be submitted to the eligibility committee—25 from each club. Anybody who has played professional baseball will be barred. Each applicant will be voted on.

OPENING UNDETERMINED

Opening of the league is indefinite, owing to uncertainty whether Murphy-st park diamond can be secured. A conference with Bernie Halloran, manager of the Independents, will be held to ascertain whether the park can be used.

In all probability, promoters of the league say, the first game will be played early in May. Two games will be played per week—the same plan as last year.

OIL COMPANIES' HANDS REVEALED

secret Plans in Argentine Brought to Light

LARGE HOLDINGS ACQUIRED

Huge Sums Are Invested by American Interests

BUENOS AIRES—(United Press)—After carefully laying their plans for entry into the Argentine oilfields at Comodoro Rivadavia, Neuquen, and other oil-rich provinces, American capitalists representing Great Britain, the United States and Germany have at last revealed their hand.

Owing to the provisions of the mining code in this country they have had to carry on all their work under semi-secret methods, but in this way they have been able to acquire large holdings in the prospective oil-bearing districts. Local capital has also been busily acquiring exploration rights, with the result that today there is no land available within 50 kilometers of the Comodoro Rivadavia field. Most of the local capitalists, however, have neither the money nor the intention to drill, their object being to sell out at high prices when the big oil concerns commence definite operations.

LEGISLATION SOUGHT

The chief obstacle in the past, and at present also, to the establishment of companies has been the attitude of the government in endeavoring to reserve for its own use practically all the available oil lands. The object is to ensure, in the event of war, a sufficient supply of fuel oil for the navy but as that supply is now more assured, foreign capital feels that it is entitled to participate in the oil wealth of Argentina.

Friends of the Anglo-Persian, the Standard, the Hugo Stinnes and associated companies are actively engaged at present in trying to secure new legislation on the oil question and the result of their efforts will probably be seen within the course of the present year.

These companies have all spent large sums of money and have already invested close to $2,000,000 on the reservation of prospecting rights and have erected in many places rigs for drilling. In addition to having delved into the full possibilities of the Comodoro Rivadavia field foreign capital is now testing the promise of rich oil yields in the Neuquen territory and more particularly at Plaza Huincul.

These companies have also explored lands farther south and geologists report that these territories give indications of one of the most prolific fields in the world.

The Standard Oil company is importing machinery and it is understood that equipment valued at 100,000 now lies in the customs house at Buenos Aires for its account. Other companies have also been importing large quantities of supplies. Another concern that is very active is the Cia. Terrellera de Petroleo, whose shares are held chiefly by the three main trunk roads of Argentina.

"WHISTLING WAR" WON BY WOMEN

MISS JANET SUMTER

EUREKA, Cal.—The "whistling war" of Eureka is over.

And Miss Janet Sumter has won for womankind thruout the nation the right to whistle on the streets, if they wish.

Miss Sumter is a plain, unassuming young woman, a well-known church worker—just a demure small-town girl—but she likes to whistle when she goes about. She believes a girl has "equal rights" with a man in all matters.

But there is a tendency to conservatism among some of the officials—so, not long ago, Policeman John Fraser reported her at headquarters.

DOWNED POLICEMAN

Later he appeared at her home, presumably to warn her. Miss Sumter was working in the garden—and whistling. Fraser ordered her to go into the house. She refused. He told her she was under arrest, and she just wouldn't be arrested.

Putting up a fight, she soon downed Fraser, who called for help. Then she worsted his assistant. Finally she was taken to jail.

Immediately Miss Sumter brought suit for $10,000.

Then the "whistling war" opened in earnest. A woman's right to whistle, and to do almost anything else for that matter, was argued pro and con, with citizens displaying considerable partisanship. Sympathy generally, however, was with the girl.

A jury trial was asked and a verdict rendered in her favor. The sum allowed was $2000.

SMALLEST PHONES

Boys Rig up Radio Sets to Carry in Pocket

FOUND—the three smallest radio sets in the world!

One's in a box one-inch square. Another's inside a watch case. And the third can be carried about in a cigar box.

All these miniature sets are owned by boy amateurs.

The inch-square outfit is operated by Alfred Giovanni, 14. He lives in Knoxville, Pa. His whole set except the earpiece fits inside the tiny box.

"I think it's too big," he says. "As soon as I get time I'm going to make one that'll fit inside a thumb."

Does his set work?

"I should say so," he says. "I can hear anything within 15 miles and sometimes more. My only trouble is that I'm always afraid I'll lose my outfit!"

The watch-case set is owned by Henry Levison, 15-year-old high school boy at Norwood, O. He made the set himself.

He carries the apparatus around in his watch pocket all the time. If he wants to catch a message, all he needs is a headpiece, ground and aerial wires.

Henry's range is great, considering the small size of his instrument. He can hear Pittsburg on the east and Texas points on the west.

Herbert Parish, Milwaukee boy, 16, has rigged up his outfit inside a cigar box. He says he made the apparatus in 15 minutes.

His set has a wide range.

DEATH HASTENED BY AMBITION

Ex-Emperor's Fraying Partly Due to Attempts at Throne.

PUNCHAL, MADERIA ISLANDS—(United Press)—Death claimed ex-Emperor Charles of Austria in his island exile Saturday.

A brief illness, culminating in double pneumonia, brought an end to the monarch at the age of 34. Called to the Austrian throne by the death of his grand uncle, Franz Josef, Charles ruled but two years before the war's end caused his abdication, and flight.

The ex-Emperor Zita was with her husband when he died. She had remained constantly with him during his exile, and it was believed she inspired the two abortive attempts to gain the crowns of Austria and Hungary which marked Charles' last year of life and hastened his end.

Former subjects of the young Hapsburg emperor remained loyal and when on Thursday his end was reported near, they raised three million crowns to send Charles' physician from Vienna to Punchal. The Portuguese government did everything to aid the royal exile and expedited the voyage of Dr. Dejour from Lisbon to Maderia but death arrived before anything could be done beyond administering of oxygen, which kept Charles alive Friday night.

A year ago Charles from his Swiss exile, hurried to Hungary to lead an attack of royalists upon the government of Admiral Horthy, but was defeated and sent back to Zurich.

In October of last year, the former emperor flew in an airplane to head another abortive coup d'etat. After this second failure the allies insisted he be removed to a safer and more confining exile and Punchal, in the Maderias, 200 miles off the African coast, was chosen.

During his reign, Charles was constantly under the domination of the kaiser, a mere figurehead for the crumbling Austro-Hungarian empire. He was a direct descendant of Rudolph, first of the Hapsburgs, who was king of the Romans in the 13th century.

He was survived by the ex-Empress Zita and their six children.

UNEMPLOYMENT MAKES DENT IN CUPID'S MARCH RECORD

Cupid was way behind the 1921 record of the little love god in the month of March this year.

Fifty-two marriage licenses were issued in March of 1921, as against 25 licenses and four marriages by banns in March of this year.

Officials of the probate court attribute the decrease to lack of employment among men. "For what man would wish to ask a woman to marry him, no matter how much he loved her, when employment is uncertain," he has not laid away a nest egg," Miss Jossie Miller, marriage license clerk, reasons.

NEGLECT GROUNDS FOR 4 DECREES

Quartette of Unhappy Wives Freed by Judge Becker

DISILLUSIONMENT COMES

Injunction Is Dissolved in Robinson Suit

It was divorce day in the court of Judge P. G. Becker, Saturday. Five couples poured their tales of woe into the ears of the patient judge, all with the one object— that of securing a decree of separation.

Mrs. Lusina Point told the court she was only 15 years old when she met John A. Point. Then she was Lusina Heffer. They were married on the Christmas following in 1919 and she was just past 16.

Her idol was shattered, she said, after they had lived together but a short time. Point was indolent, she testified, provided her no home and she was forced to work to sustain herself.

Not only that, but Mrs. Point said she was forced to provide for her husband with food and clothing out of her money. Then he became cruel and called her names, she told the court. Her husband did not appear to contest the case. When she left the court house she was again Lusina Heffer and she carried a decree of divorce with her, granted on the grounds of neglect. They have no children.

Goldie Schupp was another disillusioned wife, she testified, in seeking a decree from Russell S. Schupp. He is now working as a brick mason in Philadelphia.

While he squandered his money for drink, Mrs. Schupp testified, she was forced to rely upon relatives for support. He finally deserted her, she said. They were married in Wapakoneta in March, 1914, and have no children. She was given a divorce on grounds of neglect.

INJUNCTION DISSOLVED

The injunction granted Mary Amy Robinson against her husband, James Barber Robinson, when she instituted action recently for divorce, was modified by Judge Becker so that he might withdraw all funds he had in the Lima Home & Savings association. He must, however, pay his wife $20 a week until termination of their case in court.

Plumah Miller was granted a divorce from Daniel W. Miller, on the grounds of neglect. She was restored to her former name of Yocum. She must pay court costs.

Mrs. Clara E. Hoedcker was divorced from John K. Hoedcker, on the grounds of neglect. Custody of the minor children of the couple was awarded to Mrs. Hoedcker. He must pay $5 a week towards support of the children.

AUTO CLUB CARDS GOOD AS CASH

Will Be Accepted As Bail in Traffic Violations

"Membership cards in the Lima Automobile club are as valuable as cash in the bank," James I. Heffer, business manager, stated.

When a member is arrested for violation of traffic laws in Lima, the card will be accepted by the police as bail bond.

The club will also look after the member's interest when his case comes up in court. Arrangements for making cards good for appearance in court are closed Saturday between Heffer and the police department.

Radiator emblems, for club members, are furnished free and will assure courtesies in hotels and garages that otherwise might not be obtained. It is stated.

Road conditions all over the country are being reported to the club. Members desiring to make a trip may learn in advance the sort of roads to be encountered.

Calabrese, Frank Colucci, James E. Dunfield, R. B. Dunn, Postmaster A. E. Gale, John E. Galvin, Walter Jackson, J. T. Kaufman, Dan Kerwin, Frank Kominski, L. A. Larsen, George H. Mott, W. L. Parmenter, Clinton Seale, G. B. Selfridge, Ben Thomas, Glen C. Webb, Sam Weinfeld, A. W. Wheatley and S. M. Williams.

EXTENSION OF CREDITS TO FARMERS IS URGED

WASHINGTON — Extension of credits to farmers was urged by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in a speech here, Saturday night.

"A careful examination of the credit facilities of the country leads one to the conclusion that they have been derived almost entirely in the interest of industry and commerce," Wallace declared. "With the notable exception of the farm loan scheme, the needs of the farmers have little attention."

"Having in mind that agriculture is our basic industry and that it cannot be conducted efficiently in the absence of credit facilities, suited to its needs, there should be no disagreement with the statement that credit to farmers should be made available as easily and as cheaply as to the farmers as to industry."

SHE HAS SERVED ON EIGHT JURIES; IT IS EVERY WOMAN'S DUTY

MISS ANNA GUSTAFSON

KANE, Pa. — "If women are to take a place in the plan of the men they must not shrink jury duties."

That's the way Miss Anna Gustafson, stenographer in the American Plate Glass Co. at Kane, feels about it.

And to practice what she preaches she has served on a jury on eight occasions. Once the eleven other jurors, all men, elected her foreman of the jury.

Miss Gustafson was first summoned with 25 other women. Most all of these were excused on the ground of lack of knowledge of the law.

She offered an excuse at all, preferring to do her duty, as she calls it.

"Women should take more interest in public affairs," she says. "Any woman, with a conscientious understanding of right and wrong, can render a just verdict. It is her duty to attend to the evidence and the judge's charge."

MISS ANNA GUSTAFSON

HARMON IS NAMED AS TRUSTEE

Will Continue Operation of Argonne Hotel

That the Argonne Hotel will continue as a going concern, although under the control of a trustee in bankruptcy, was assured by P. E. Harmon, whose appointment as receiver terminated Saturday.

At a meeting of unsecured creditors of the Co-operative Building company, held Saturday in the office of H. D. Grindle, referee in bankruptcy, it was voted that Harmon continue in charge of the affairs of the company, in the capacity of trustee in bankruptcy, until such time as the property is sold or leased, or his appointment terminated by order of the commission.

It is not to be shown that the property was being operated at a loss.

"The money invested in the property is all Lima capital, save about $60,000," Harmon said Saturday.

"In view of the fact that the hotel is being operated profitably, it would be unwise to close the doors. Therefore, its operation will continue with the same management."

There are no immediate indications that the property will be leased or sold, Harmon said, although it was admitted there may be developments along that line soon.

WILL DRAG ROADS

Township Trustees to Direct Work—Load Limit Order Off

Township trustees were notified by County Surveyor Walter R. Toy, Saturday, to put their road crews to work Monday and drag and grade all country roads possible in the next ten days.

"Now is the time to put them in to good shape," he said.

Trustees are asked to drag country as well as township roads, as the county commissioners will not be ready to take care of the secondary highways for another week. Trustees will be paid for the work done on county roads.

Toy also announced that the ban on weight of vehicles will be lifted Monday. A limit of 200 pounds per wheel limit was placed on traffic three weeks ago, on account of the shabby condition of country roads.

CENTRAL HIGH SENIORS STAGE TARKINGTON PLAY

"Clarence," a four act comedy by Booth Tarkington was presented by the Senior Class of Central high school, Friday evening.

The play was one of the best staged ever given in the large auditorium and received hearty applause throughout the entire evening.

The play is an American in its theme, as is American in its spirit. The members of the cast interpreted their parts splendidly and the participants made the presentation a success.

The cast included: Darrel Creps as Clarence; Doris Newell as Mrs. Mary; James Backus as Mr. Wheeler; Elizabeth Clark as Mrs. Wheeler; William Earnest as Bobby Wheeler; Norma Cohen as Cora Wheeler; Helen Hamilton as Violet Primmy; Iona Price as Della; Harold Allen as Dinwiddie and Burdette Herring as Hubert Stem.

Miss Zella Foster was in charge of the play with Miss Idora Shumaker as her assistant.

FACTS ABOUT YOUR GAS BILL

QUESTIONS WE HAVE BEEN ASKED. WE ARE GIVING YOU FACTS

Why are natural gas rates being increased?
Why are they being increased when the prices of other things are being reduced?
What can the average consumer do to counteract the increased cost of natural gas?
Why must natural gas rates continue to increase?

Have natural gas companies done anything to reduce costs?
Do natural gas companies mix air with the gas?
Does the removal of gasoline affect the heating value of natural gas?
Why do natural gas companies make a minimum charge?

THE Biblical assertion that "wisdom is the principal thing" and, further, the injunction to "with all thy wisdom meet understanding" is applicable with particular force to the field of public utility operation.

It is the policy of The Lima Natural Gas Co. to see to it that its humblest customer has available complete information regarding the affairs of the company, and it was with this thought in mind that a corps of experts has been employed to visit gas consumers in Lima and assist our customers to save gas as well as give any information concerning our service which might be required.

Our company has been asked many questions. It is for that reason that the more important ones are printed here along with answers based on facts and not on theory. Answers to these queries follow:

Why Are Gas Rates Being Increased?

Gas rates are going higher and must continue to increase primarily because of the gradual depletion of the supply. It costs more per thousand cubic feet of gas obtained to drill wells and it costs more to maintain and operate them. It costs more to buy gas. It costs more to compress gas as well pressures decline. It costs no less to distribute a smaller amount of gas, to read meters and make out bills or collect them. The total operating costs and, therefore, the cost of giving gas service, do not go down as the amount of gas sold decreases. Therefore, to bring in sufficient revenue to make it possible to continue to operate the price of gas per thousand feet must continue to rise.

Why Are Natural Gas Rates Increased When the Prices of Other Things Are Reduced?

Other things, even manufactured gas and public utility rates other than for natural gas, are dependent upon the cost of giving service, and fluctuate with the cost of labor and materials. Natural gas rates differ in that they are affected by the very important factor of decreasing supply, which can never be replaced. In the case of natural gas companies, transportation and distribution lines were laid to carry the maximum supply of natural gas then available. The largest possible productive acreage was also secured and retained so that a continuous supply might be assured. The wide extreme between maximum summer and winter demands has made necessary the drilling and holding in reserve and in idleness during many months of the year of sufficient wells to care for the maximum winter demand which is only for a comparatively few days. As the field supplies decline, the operating costs are increased because of the necessity to add largely to compressing station capacity and investment. It is obvious that as the amount of gas delivered to consumers declines the cost per thousand cubic feet increases.

What Can the Average Consumer Do to Counteract the Increased Cost of Gas?

As the price of gas increases the consumer will find it necessary to learn how to use it more efficiently. Many gas appliances now in use are inefficient and wasteful. It will be necessary to improve or replace present inefficient room heaters, cook stoves and water heaters. A more careful use of correctly designed appliances will be required. The average consumer will find that with due regard to the elimination or prevention of waste and the careful use of modern appliances there will be little increase in the size of the gas bill. The gas consumer will find it wise to substitute coal, coke or some other fuel for main house heating. Manufactured gas is only half as effective as natural gas and it costs nearly twice as much, yet users of this artificial fuel find their average yearly gas bills are no higher than the yearly average bills of the natural gas consumer. This shows what can be done by careful and economical use of gas.

Why Must Natural Gas Rates Continue to Increase?

It has been pointed out that the supply of natural gas is becoming less from year to year and that it can never be replaced. It has also been shown that operating costs increase with declining supply. As the amount of gas available continues to grow less the price per thousand cubic feet must necessarily become higher. Otherwise the gas companies cannot afford to operate. The price of natural gas will gradually increase until it approaches the figure now the average for manufactured gas. When it is cheaper to furnish a manufactured gas this district undoubtedly will be supplied with such gas. That day will be postponed by gradual increase in rates which will cause the elimination of waste and the conservation of this valuable fuel for its essential uses.

Have Natural Gas Companies Done Anything to Reduce Costs?

Labor costs in the natural gas business have been reduced in line with labor costs in other business enterprises. These very material reductions, however, have not been nearly enough to counteract the increasing cost of production per thousand cubic feet due to decreasing gas supplies. A large part of the cost of service in any public business is made up of the interest charges on the money invested. The investment per customer in the natural gas

Do Natural Gas Companies Mix Air With the Gas?

Absolutely no. Air mixed with natural gas in proper proportions produces a highly explosive mixture. No gas company could afford to invite the destruction of its own property by mixing air with gas. The resulting mixture would be a constant menace that entire transportation lines might be destroyed. The thought that air is mixed with gas by the natural gas companies comes from the apparent lack of heating value in gas at the stove during periods of extreme cold, when pressures may be low. This is due to failure to adjust the appliance to the reduced gas pressure. Proper adjustment would mean an entirely different story. The use of the word pump station has also been unfortunate. As pressures at wells have declined and as transportation lines have been extended compressing stations have been found necessary to compress the gas so that it might again be able to expand and travel in expanding.

Does the Removal of Gasoline Affect the Heating Value of Natural Gas?

Removal of gasoline from natural gas does not affect the heating value of the gas so far as the consumer is concerned, as the gasoline, if it were not removed, would not reach the appliance of the consumer in usable or beneficial shape. On the contrary, gasoline has always been a source of trouble to gas companies as it produced the leakage of considerable gas from pipe line couplings and caused other pipe line troubles. Before a method for the removal of gasoline from the gas was developed, it was necessary to eliminate all gasoline by blowing off drips, during which operation large quantities of gas were wasted. Many methods were tried to eliminate gasoline trouble in pipe lines until the plan of recovering gasoline in the present efficient manner was discovered. The present rate of removal of gasoline is about two-tenths of a gallon per thousand cubic feet of natural gas distributed. This reduces the heating value about 2½ per cent or 28 B. T. U. per thousand cubic feet. Although the gas at the gas plant is slightly reduced in heating value, the consumer is actually benefited because he receives a cleaner gas. Extraction of the gasoline produces a revenue that was formerly lost and enables the gas company to produce gas at a lower cost to that extent. The gas consumer, the gas company and the public in general benefit by the removal of gasoline from natural gas.

Why Do Companies Make a Minimum Charge?

Gas companies not only sell a commodity but they also sell a service. In order to be able to sell this service they must invest a certain amount of money for each consumer from which no other consumer can obtain any possible advantage. They must be prepared to render service at all times whether the consumer desires a small amount of gas or a large amount or no gas at all. Gas companies must stand ready to meet the instant and unknown wishes of their consumers. This necessary investment is for a part of the main in the street, the service main, the meter connections. These meter and service connections must be kept in repair for the individual consumer. Whether he uses any gas or not it is necessary that he should pay a monthly charge to keep in repair this property installed for his special use. It is only right that he should pay the interest and depreciation on this investment. The gas companies must regularly read the meters of all consumers, keep the books and render bills, regardless of the amount of gas used. In addition to all of these items of expense, gas companies must keep men on duty night and day to keep in condition their distribution and transportation systems, compressing stations and wells so that the instant the consumer desires to use the service gas is at his disposal. It costs natural gas companies about $1.50 each month to take care of each individual consumer, disregarding entirely the cost of the gas or its transportation to the consumer. It can, therefore, be readily seen that a minimum charge does not repay the cost necessary for each consumer who only uses 1,000 cubic feet or less gas per month. If the gas companies do not charge these consumers who use a very small amount of gas some part of what it costs to provide them with service, other consumers must be compelled to bear the burden in the way of a general increase of gas prices.

These answers have been given many times to individuals, but are furnished the public in order that it may fully understand our business. We are glad to furnish information on any phase of our business.

LIMA MAN GOES OVER THE TOP

Joseph Black Originator and Designer of Cord Tire

It will interest the community and many friends of Jos. J. Black to learn that he is the superintendent of the Master Tire & Rubber Co., one of the leading industrial concerns of Dayton, Ohio.

"Joe" Black as he is familiarly known is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Black, 433 N. McDonald-st., this city, and received his education in the Lima schools.

The possibilities of the tire industry appealed to him and after his graduation secured a position in the experimental department of the Goodyear Company of Akron. He spent nine years with that company, devoting much of his time to the development of the cord tire, a type of tire that was practically unknown when he entered the tire business.

When the United States became involved in the world war the government called for a more serviceable tire for airplane wheels. Mr. Black's ability as a tire builder had come to the attention of army and aircraft engineers, and they secured his services to help them in their work of developing an airplane tire.

After months of testing and experimenting they submitted to the government Mr. Black's idea of an airplane tire which was so successful that it was immediately adopted.

How the Master Cord, is a natural development of the airplane tire is best told in Mr. Black's own words. Its solution does not lie in simply making a miniature of a large cord tire—for here the flexible part of the tire is too close to the bead. And the ceaseless flexing of the tire on the road soon breaks the bead from the carcass. Airplane tires, subjected to the terrific impact of landing at 70 or 80 miles an hour over rough and bumpy ground presented much the same enigma.

Practically the same tire design and construction that has proved so successful for airplanes is embodied in the Master Cord tire.

Up to this time our modern factory has concentrated exclusively on this 30x3 1-2 oversize cord tire, just one quality, a cord of incomparable strength, resiliency, and long life.

PLANK FOR MUD HOLES

For motorists who travel much over dirt roads, a plank with chain attachment, as shown above, would make a useful accessory during spring. So that the chain will not cut into the spokes, it is advisable to cover that part with a piece of rubber hose.

"MERIT TELLS"

Says B. C. FORBES in Writing About Studebaker.

In two words, B. C. Forbes, editor of "Forbes Magazine" and noted financial writer, sums up Studebaker leadership.

Mr. Forbes writes facts. Read the following editorial which appeared during January in the Chicago "Herald-Examiner" and other national newspapers for whom Mr. Forbes writes a daily column:

"Merit tells. More Studebaker cars were sold in New York city last month than of any other make, not even excluding Fords.

"Guess how many tests and experiments were conducted by the Studebaker people at their plants last year. Ten thousand? Fifty thousand? One hundred thousand? No, the total was 500,000—half a million.

"Maybe that had something to do with the fact that the last week in December was the biggest the Studebaker Corporation ever enjoyed in its history.

"Last year the company made 67,000 cars. Its 1922 plans call for 100,000.

"A 50 per cent increase in production in one year strikes one as rather remarkable progress, doesn't it?"

NEW JEWETT SIX IS NOW READY FOR INSPECTION

The Jewett, the new light six designed and manufactured by the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company, is now on exhibition in the local Paige salesrooms, at 114 E. Market-st. Motorists will now have an opportunity not only to examine the car, but also ride in it, so that they may determine just what Paige engineers have worked out in the way of a six-cylinder automobile in the one thousand dollar class.

Altho up to now the Jewett has been displayed only privately, and the public has had neither an opportunity to see nor to ride in it, a widespread interest has already been aroused and many inquiries have been received. News travels fast and word has gone forth that the Jewett, a high-powered six with very attractive body lines, is something of an engineering and manufacturing achievement at the price.

The Jewett has long been expected for it was long in the making, being the fruit of a number of years of study and experiment. It is described as an effort to give the market its first quality six at a quantity price. Undoubtedly many motorists will want to size up this effort and orders and demonstrations are already being booked.

NEW STUDEBAKER IS BEAUTY

Body Work and Mechanical Refinements Notable in the 1922 Line

New bodies of striking beauty, added appointments and conveniences and notable refinements in mechanical design mark the 1922 Studebaker models that are being shown by the local distributor, The Hawisher Motor Co., 406 W. Market-st.

The new bodies are the hand-somest that ever graced a Studebaker car. Built complete in Studebaker factories, they are a triumph of the many years of experience that Studebaker body designers and artisans have devoted to the creation of fine coach work. Aside from their striking beauty, these bodies are of highest quality thruout and noted also for their distinctiveness and originality of design.

The Special Six body is finished with refinements that make it even more beautiful than last year's model. These include parking lights in the lower corners of the one-piece, clear-vision windshield, windshield wiper, large beveled plate glass window in rear of tailored top, and cowl ventilator controlled from dash.

Refinements have been incorporated in mechanical details also that make driving easier and the shifting of gears as silent as it is simple. The new perfected clutch is of the single plate dry disc type in which the driven member is a single spider rotating between two rings of friction surfaces. Release mechanism consists of a series of levers equalized so as to centre the pressure separating the friction sur-

The gear shift lever is centrally located directly on the transmission cover, and is of the ball-and-socket type, with an offset cane lever which makes gear shifting easy. Of 110-inch wheel-base, the Special Six is noted for its roominess for both driver and passengers. The 50-horsepower motor is of Studebaker design, with great resources of quiet, flexible, economical power.

The Big Six, too, is featured by a new style of body with heavy beaded edge, graceful cowl, larger and higher hood.

Mechanically, the Big Six and the Special Six follow largely the same principles, altho by reason of its 120-inch wheelbase and 60 horsepower motor, the Big Six is a larger and more powerful car.

The new Light Six, like the other

Studebaker models, has a distinctive, graceful body. Notable new refinements include cowl parking lamps, cowl ventilator controlled from the dash, windshield wiper and large plate glass window in rear of the smart gypsy top.

Gasoline consumed by motor vehicles in the United States is estimated to be 600,000,000 gallons a year.

Of this number of casings manufactured, three have been returned for adjustment. All three of the adjusted tires mentioned got thru the final inspection in error and should have never left the factory as first-class tires.

Causes of the tires to be adjusted were defective rib-bags. Of the Thirteen Thousand Four Hundred (13,400) tires manufactured not one has been returned for adjustment for rim-cutting, jumping off the rim, separation, tube pinching, or any other defects known to the tire trade.

Affidavit further states that he personally inspects every tire returned to factory for adjustment.

IS YOUR BATTERY READY FOR SPRING?

Does the Car Seem Sort of "Pepp-less" After the Winter Grind?

These are the days when everybody's fixing up the bus for spring. It seems sort of "pepp-less" after having carried you thru the winter. All the you have got of it all up so it looks like a million. It just naturally don't seem to have the necessary "vim and vigor."

Of course about the first thing you think of when this sad state of affairs is revealed is that important part of its work—the battery. Come to think of it, it is about time this organ is receiving a little attention. At once you hasten to the battery station that you believe is best equipped to look it over and prescribe the necessary remedies. The expert battery man that you find there doesn't take long to recharge it and give it the attention necessary—he seems to realize that these fine spring days everybody is anxious to "get going" as you are now on your way. The bus takes on new life, and feeling the call of the road, you're off.

H. W. L. Kidder, local Willard battery dealer, says that at his station they are "all set" for an unusual spring business. The new Willard All-Rubber battery has performed so satisfactorily since it was introduced to the motoring public that it has been established as the logical battery to install when spring replacements are necessary. People seem to know that when their car is equipped with an All-Rubber they can enjoy the scenery when they go rambling this spring, with no disturbing thought about whether their battery will function or not.

AUTO NOTES FOR DRIVERS

Facts About Motoring and a Set of Rules for Motorists

Motor car and motor truck manufacturers of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce have recommended that with each new car put on the market, a Safety Tag be provided setting forth some fundamental traffic precautions to encourage safe driving. A sample form of recommended suggestions follows: THESE CAUTIONS MAY SAVE A LIFE

1. Always remember you are an engineer, fully responsible.
2. Inspect your brakes at least once a month.
3. Never pass to the left of a street car.
4. Never pass a street car when it is stopping for passengers.
5. Always signal with hand when slowing down, turning or stopping.
6. Sound horn three times for backing.
7. Observe the traffic rules carefully; they are made for your safety.

80,500,000 TONS OVER HIGHWAYS

YELLOW TAIL LIGHTS

Yellow for tail lights is suggested by a writer in "Tailway Age."

The use of red, it is argued, is confusing to a driver at night and the writer cites a case in which a chauffeur had been following the red lights of cars ahead for some time. Approaching a railroad crossing he took it for granted that the red light on the gate was that of a car ahead and he turned out to shoot ahead. The car ran thru the gate and was struck by a train.

Use of yellow lights for the rear of automobiles is the remedy to avoid such accidents, says the writer. Red should be restricted for use at dangerous locations, such as railway and hazardous street crossings and places where material is piled up in the street.

NEW BUICK POLICY OF SERVICE

Owners appreciate more than ever before the extent and nature of the dealer service that should accompany the purchase of a motor car. Service has become a consideration of major importance and few are the cautious buyers today who do not give careful thought before purchasing, to the elements that enter into satisfactory service.

In other words, the buyer feels that he should not only get a car mechanically sound but also the protection of safe-guarding his investment—the protection afforded by a service organization as efficient and thorough as that of the manufacturer producing the car.

Many years ago Buick realized that the time was coming when the availability of competent service would be a matter of great concern to the buyer of a motor car and that the sale of a car would involve more than mechanical excellence, pleasing appearance, as well as features that make for convenience and comfort.

While we have been going ahead building the best car we knew how according to basic principles of good design and engineering, we have also been building up a service organization on the principle that an owner actually expects to buy uninterrupted transportation, rather than just a motor car.

The serviceability of the Buick car is well known. One has always heard of its good qualities, of its dependability, of the great power furnished by its Valve-in-Head motor, of its ease of control, of its economical operation, of all the things that make it the standard motor car value. And in recent years, one has heard of the Buick service policies which have been shaped into an effective system of owner protection.

And so it is that Buick service is an integral part of the sale of a Buick. The buyer gets an unusual value in uninterrupted transportation—a car that is mechanically correct combined with a service that safeguards its quality in the fullest measure.

BATTERY MAKERS WARN AGAINST REBUILT JUNK

Only Five Per Cent New, Say Investigators

Beware of junked batteries. Manufacturers of standard batteries have sent out warnings against the purchase of batteries that "look like new," or "are just as good."

These, they say, are doctored up so they will stand up well for a short while. Old batteries are bought at junk rates, taken apart and rebuilt from salvaged parts.

It is the same scheme that has been played with the motor tire business. Sale of rebuilt discarded batteries has been going on for a number of years, but not until lately.

FACTS ABOUT NEW RADIO BATTERIES AND SERVICE

"Radio service," said Leo Beckman, manager of the local Exide Service Station, "requires a battery with a dependable voltage, that is, a battery whose voltage, after a few minutes' use, will not drop to a point where it becomes necessary to make frequent adjustments of the apparatus."

There is only one way to be assured of this, and that is, to buy only new batteries and only those made by a firm with a reputation for making dependable batteries.

Also, it is very desirable and really important to buy a battery that has behind it a service organization which will help the radio fan prolong the life of his battery.

Much depends on the proper care of a storage battery, as many motorists who use them in their cars will testify. This doesn't mean that storage batteries are hard to care for, but on the contrary, the rules are so few and simple, that many people fail to be impressed by the importance of rigidly following them. In this, the proper service organization can help by teaching the radio fan how to take care of his battery.

Then a lot of radio fans don't know what kind of a battery to buy, as such terms as "voltage" and "amperes" are bewildering. We're answering questions every day at our service station and we are glad to tell any radio enthusiast or prospective owner of a set, all we know about batteries and we issue a broad invitation to the good folks of Lima to use this service to the limit."

ly, say manufacturers, has it reached threatening proportions. COST MORE IN END

High prices have helped the junked battery business. That is why manufacturers want to warn the motorist against buying cheaper batteries. They're costlier in the end.

Investigators who have torn down these salvaged batteries say they found only about 5 per cent of each battery represented new material. One new battery plate, alongside the old ones, an electrolyte, paint—and the battery looks like new. The new plate, say the investigators, keeps the battery alive long enough for its sale and short use by the owner. The moral is to buy a battery from a recognized dealer or responsible garage, and to be sure it is one of the standard makes.

We make this announcement so that every local motorist may plan to see this remarkable car and arrange for a demonstration early in the week.

Up to now the Jewett has been displayed only at private exhibitions. But good news—important news—cannot be suppressed. That is why thousands of people are waiting for this car with an eagerness that is quite without precedent.

The word has gone forth that the Jewett is an astounding achievement in motor car value—a fine, high-powered six at a price that is little less than sensational. Though incomplete, that description fits the car with absolute accuracy.

What the public does not know is this: The Jewett is a very comfortable five-passenger car with superbly beautiful body lines and every appointment that a critical man could desire. It is equipped with a fifty-horsepower six-cylinder motor that will develop a speed of sixty miles per hour or throttle down to a snail's pace in traffic.

It is built on a specially designed frame that cannot sag or wear. Its springs are unusually long and flexible. The body is hung close to the ground and perfect distribution of weight insures the calm, steady riding qualities of an ocean liner.

Though very high powered and brilliant in performance, it is a miser on fuel consumption and will turn up amazing mileage on its over-size cord tires. Such, in brief, is the Jewett. And the price is $1065 f. o. b. Detroit.

The Jewett is now here to tell its own story as no words could ever tell it.

Come in at this time. See the car—ride in it—drive it—judge it from any angle that your experience suggests. Then, decide whether it is not the first real quality six at a quantity price.

FROM 24TH TO 8TH PLACE

Among Automobile Companies
In Less Than Five Years

In five years Nash has risen from 24th to 8th place in volume of annual business among all motor car companies in the industry.

This is a far faster increase than that shown by any other company during the same period.

Today Nash and five other great manufacturing organizations build 84% of all motor cars produced in the United States.

To the best of our belief Nash actually manufactures in its own plants more of the car than any other American builder.

The published Nash financial statement at the end of 1921 showed it to be in about the most liquid and healthy financial condition of any company in the business.

Nash is one of the very few builders of motor cars, who entered 1922 with new models and new prices.

Reflect for a moment upon the tremendous significance of those six important statements of fact.

The new Nash line includes twelve models: Four and six cylinders; open and closed; two, three, four, five, and seven passenger capacity; a price range from $965 to $2390, f. o. b. factory. Your car is among them. Come in and drive it.

Who Posed for the Mysterious Figure to Weep on Vernon Castle's Grave?

Irene Castle Refuses to Tell, Even the Sculptor Has Been Sworn to Secrecy, So the Identity of the Slender, Bobbed-Haired Beauty Whose Undraped Replica in Cold White Marble Is to Mark the Soldier-Dancer's Tomb May Never Be Revealed

Vernon Castle, Famous Dancer and War Hero, Killed at Kelly Field.

ROMANCE and mystery tinge the discovery that beautiful Irene Castle has commissioned the statue of a weeping woman to be erected above the grave of her late husband and dancing affinity, Vernon Castle, whose tomb at Woodlawn Cemetery, New York, has been marked only by a slab of stone since he died a hero's death in the World War.

The undraped figure, slender as a girl, is carved in white marble. The woman has fallen to her knees in an attitude of desolation. Her head is bowed as though her tears fell unrestrained. The face is almost invisible behind a drooping tangle of bobbed curls, and because of its position.

Who posed for this statue? Who is the living, breathing original of the silent marble image which for years to come shall grieve there, visualizing to the world the sorrow Vernon Castle's death brought to one who loved him? Whose is the hidden face behind the bobbed curls?

The answer is a mystery. Only two or possibly three people know, and they have maintained secrecy. Mrs. Sally James Farnham, the sculptor of the statue, shakes her head. She never, she says, makes public the names of models. Irene Castle, in private life now Mrs. Robert Treman, selected Mrs. Farnham to make the statue and will unveil it on Decoration Day at her former husband's grave. She herself is a favorite model of Mrs. Farnham's.

"It is true," she said, "that I posed undraped several times for Mrs. Farnham. But it is not true that I posed for this particular statue. The statue I posed for was a dancing bacchante. This other statue Mrs. Farnham has called 'The End of the Day.' To me it is a perfect symbol of sorrow. I can only say the statue measures up fully to my idea of the memorial I have long wanted for Vernon's grave. But the name of the model I do not wish known."

Mrs. Castle went on to speak in a restrained voice of the man whose romantic fortunes she shared so brilliantly, with whom she soared to the most glittering peaks a dancing couple ever scaled in his country; whose tragic death at Kelly Field, after he had been wounded in France and furloughed home, deeply affected her.

"The last time I danced with Vernon," she said, "was at the New York Hippodrome at a benefit for British recruiting. He was given special permission to come north for the performance. That night he received the greatest ovation the public ever gave us. As we whirled across the stage in each other's arms, Vernon's eyes were on me with a strange tenderness. But I little realized it was to be our last dance together."

"She paused; then—
"I have never forgotten that night. Ever since, every time I dance, Vernon's spirit seems to be dancing with me. I can see his eyes watching me—I can almost feel his touch."

That strange consciousness of a shadow at the side of the solo dancer is characteristic of Irene Castle's attitude since her husband's death, say her friends. She is happily married to wealthy Robert Treman, wholesale hardware merchant, of Ithaca, N. Y., her native city, but she has never taken another professional dancing partner; she has refused every urgent offer to dance with another; she has kept the name of Castle in public life; she has, in her dancing career, remained true to the memory of the man who so shaped and influenced it during his life.

That influence began twelve years ago when pretty Irene Foote, an inexperienced stage-struck girl, daughter of an up-State physician, met the first actor she had ever known, a good-looking young Englishman playing comedy juveniles for Lew Fields. He secured her a dancing engagement, and a year later Irene Foote and Vernon Castle were married.

From the beginning there was an amazing synchronization in their dancing. When they floated onto the floor in waltz or tango, they seemed one. Yet success did not come in a flash. They were little known on Broadway when Vernon Castle received an offer to appear in a Paris revue. In accepting it, they would risk the loss of what New York recognition they had received, but they stood to gain international fame. The Castles "took a chance" and won the gamble.

With that first sensation at the Casino de Paris, when Irene Castle appeared in the little Dutch cap, the dark blue suit, the white flannel collar and cuffs—the first of the simple yet impressive costumes which were to win her the name of "the best dressed woman in the world" and set the women of a nation to imitating the "Castle Clip" and other chic examples—there began golden days for the Castles.

"Always, Vernon's spirit seems to be dancing with me. I see his eyes watching me—I can almost feel his touch."—Irene Castle.

The Mystery Statue, "The End of the Day," Which Irene Castle Describes as "a Perfect Symbol of Sorrow."

After Paris, Deauville! And then London, New York, "Castle House," record-breaking theatrical runs, social recognition and then social popularity and prominence! On the crest of the dancing wave that belted the world rode Vernon and Irene Castle, coining money beyond their dreams, sought after by society, adored by the public, drinking the wine of life with the glorious zest of youth, and always together—a pair of graceful butterflies, seemingly forever linked by music and rhythm.

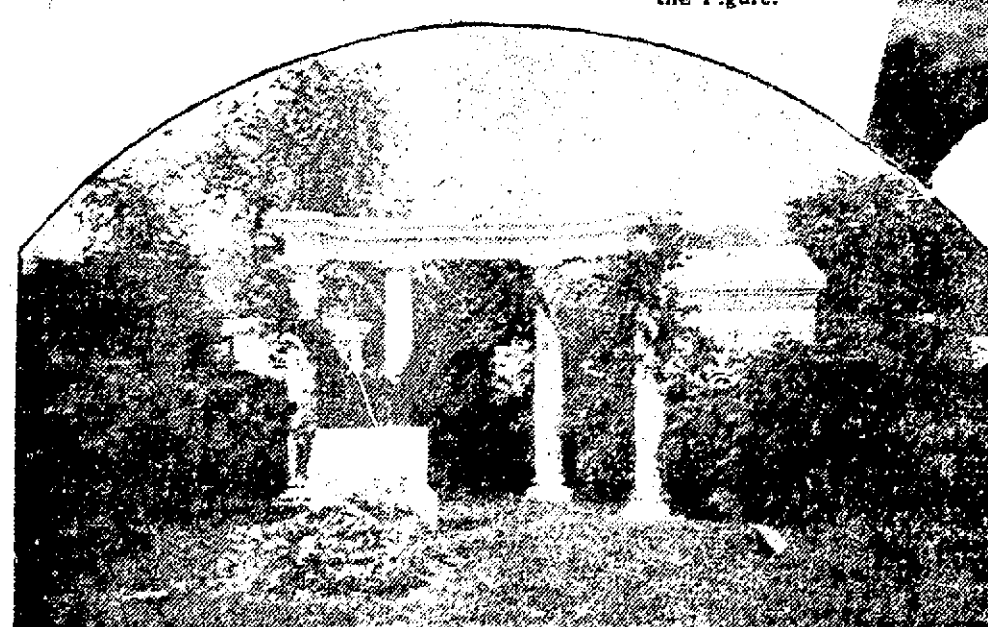

Like a thunderclap came the war. Vernon Castle, born in Norwich, England, and British to the core, enlisted in the Royal Air Forces in Canada. He was sent overseas early in the game. Mrs. Castle threw herself fervently into war work, but fear for Vernon's safety was always a dark spectre at her side. He was decorated for bravery. He was wounded. He was released from active duty and invalided back to Canada. Irene Castle cried with relief. The black days seemed over; golden days dawned again.

But a new danger loomed. Captain Castle became an instructor of student flyers. In one of his early flights, while he himself was a student, he had survived a nasty fall. His companion, who had occupied the front seat of the plane, was killed. Thereafter Castle always insisted on taking the place of peril himself.

Castle was assigned to Kelly Field,

Texas. There Mrs. Castle visited him frequently. Kelly Field, drawing its enlisted personnel from the best blood in the country, was a social mecca. Vernon Castle, in his uniform, was never more handsome and popular. Mrs. Castle was never more beautiful. Again they became the dancing Castles, pets of society.

The tragic climax came only a few days after Castle's return South after his appearance at the Hippodrome. A telegram brought to Irene Castle the news she had dreaded for two years. Her husband, seated in the front seat of the plane, had been killed. The young widow was prostrated for days.

Vernon Castle's body, wrapped in the flags of the Allies and resting on a gun-carriage, was brought home to New York. Services were held at the Little Church Around the Corner. They were attended by thousands. Men and women from many walks of life were there, for Vernon Castle's friends were legion. Society and the stage united in tribute to the man who had been their favorite. Among the swarms of people there stood out the white face of Irene Castle, her quiet grief distinguished by the look of one who saw visions others could not see.

After the burial of her husband at Woodlawn, friends of Mrs. Castle say she expressed at once a desire to erect on Vernon Castle's grave a memorial more impressive than the plain stone slab embossed with his name and the date of his death. But she waited, uncertain what form it should take.

In time the young widow discarded mourning. Fresh interests absorbed her. She met and married Mr. Treman. She returned to social life and to the stage. But she remained as a solo dancer. And she kept the name of Castle.

Now comes the first announcement that at last she has selected what she conceives to be the most fitting memorial for her former husband's tomb—and those who have seen the striking figure cannot conceal their interest in the model's identity. They have been given one picture—of Irene Castle, solo dancer, the spirit of her husband invisible at her side. And now they have another—of the mystic marble figure weeping on Vernon Castle's grave.

A Preacher-Scientist's Amazing New Conclusion About Angels

Rev. Horace C.
Stanton, D. D.

A Celestial Easter Message by a Heavenly Being May Be Flashed to Us

*Through Radio-Telepathy, If
Dr. Stanton's Theory Is Tenable*

If you want to talk with the angels—study radio-telepathy.

"Thought" waves are the "court language of heaven," and the angel voices heard by Joan of Arc and other saints were "wireless messages" inaudible to the physical ear.

Angels and other celestial beings have no bodily organs of speech, but by means of tremendous psychic power can send their messages through limitless space in the twinkling of an eye.

These are some of the astounding conclusions of Dr. Horace C. Stanton, of Philadelphia, noted Presbyterian preacher and psychologist.

He does not deny, however, the reality of the experiences, recorded in the Bible and later church history, of various people who have "talked" with angels and "heard" spirit voices.

He says angels have power to make those with whom they communicate believe they are hearing actual physical voices and that angels can even make their presence seem visible to the eye—but that these apparently physical experiences are really directed to the inner consciousness alone. In other words, the experience is absolutely real to the person for whom it is intended, but another person standing by would hear and see nothing.

Therefore, while his standing conclusions seem at first in variance with orthodox religious teachings, he declares that they are really in accordance with accepted theological doctrine.

The Bible itself contains many remarkable statements about angels which may be surprising to persons who have not made a thorough study of the scriptures. Angels generally are depicted in conventional painting, and usually thought of by most people as radiant beings with a pair of white wings and a white robe. But, according to the Bible, there are many kinds of angels, among which the white-robed, two-winged ones are perhaps the least important of all.

Highest and most powerful in the angelic hierarchy are the archangels, mighty beings who are like princes and rulers in heaven—Michael in armor and flaming sword, Gabriel with his trumpet, Israel with his flute, Raphael and one or two others.

Satan himself was an archangel, a prince among the heavenly hosts. Before the fall his name was Lucifer, meaning "light-bearer."

Next after the archangels come the Cherubim and Seraphim, enormous and terrifying celestial beings described as having six wings. Others have four heads and various strange forms, according to the teachings of the early church.

In an address before the Presbyterian Ministers' Association in Philadelphia, this modern preacher-scientist rejected the old idea of a single heaven located at some definite spot, with streets paved in gold. In its place he drew a picture of the entire universe as heaven, with its two hundred millions of worlds all inhabited by celestial beings, with angels and spirits finding abode in this vast space, communicating with each other by telepathy and presenting telepathic pictures in the twinkling of an eye.

Dr. Stanton explains quite definitely what he means by saying that telepathy is the "court language" of heaven.

"It is used," he declares, not only by the angels, but by three omnipresent, omnipotent beings, the Father, the Holy Ghost and Christ. The Father and the Holy Ghost never had any physical organs of speech. Therefore, thought transmission must be the language used.

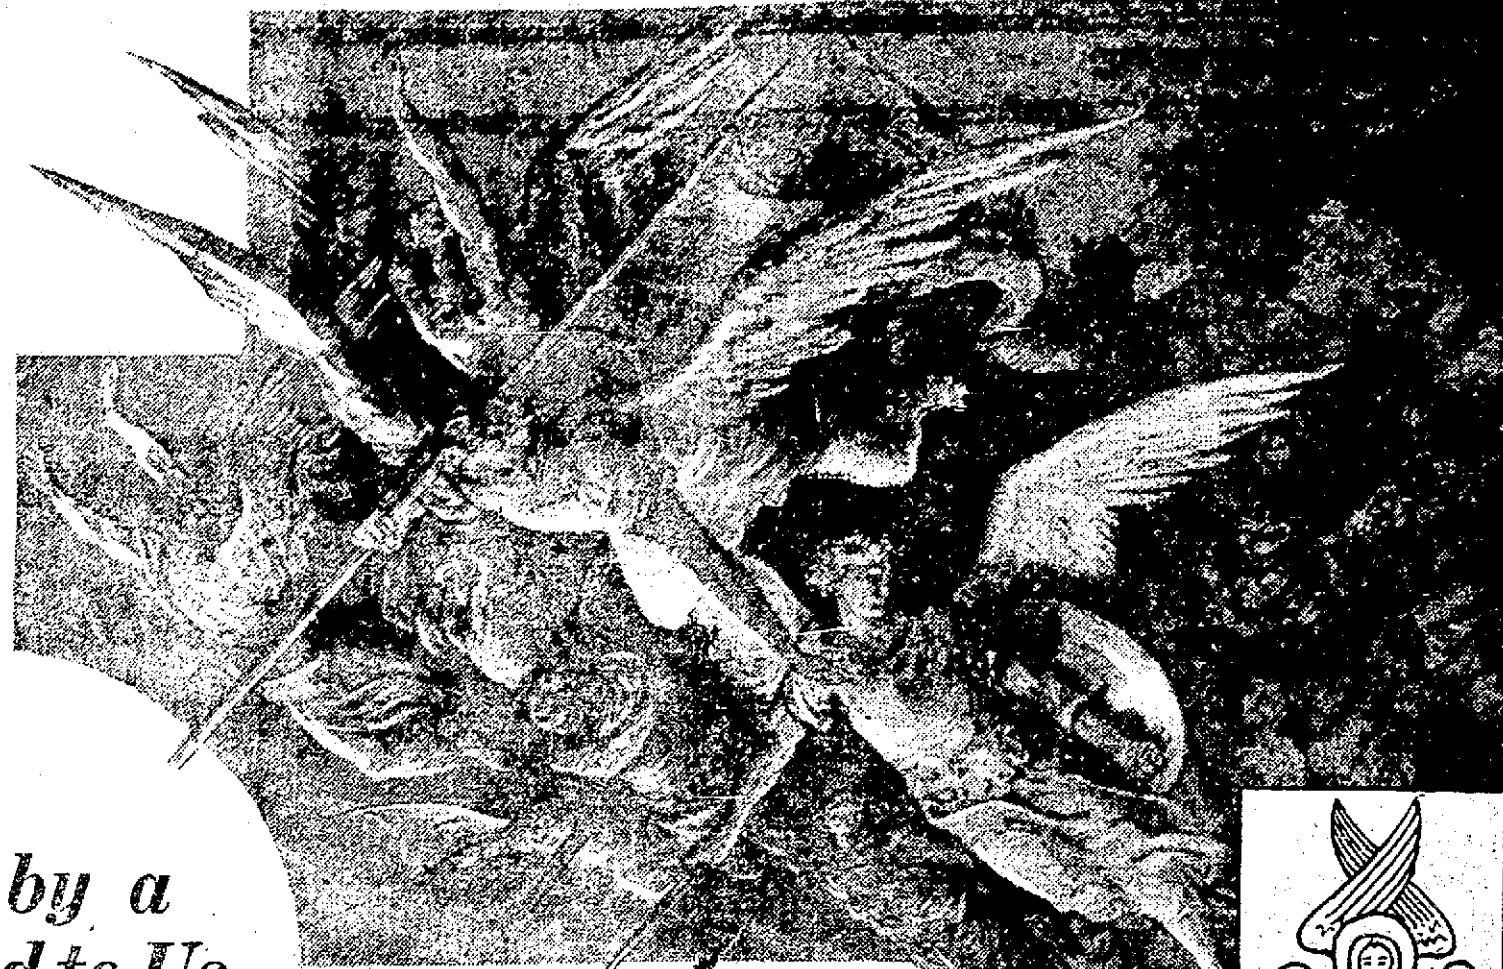

"For centuries scientists have noted the marvels of telepathy and clairvoyance. By telepathy all the details of a complex event are transmitted to a distant mind. By clairvoyance all the features of such a scene would be reproduced from afar. These occurrences were long regarded as occult, but within recent years it has been shown that they are caused by higher powers in the human soul, usually dormant, but sometimes active.

"The Scriptures have explained what science could not reveal. They have told us of intelligences far higher than ourselves—of inspired men, angels, glorified saints, the God-man and the Father. The angels know all about our location and circumstances; our friends in the other world know all about us here. In that other world, mental telegrams can be dispatched over distances indefinitely great and can be received almost instantly. By clairvoyance the angels can locate other persons far away, can know their surroundings, circumstances and mental states. Perhaps when we get there, we will know all about our loved ones on earth as the angels do."

He believes it is possible for man to speak with God directly by telepathy. Mental prayer, he says, can go directly to God and be answered by His means.

In a book which he has written entitled "Telepathy of the Celestial World," Dr.

A Dore Engraving of Heavenly Hosts.

that it springs with equal ease from world to world."

It is easy to imagine the stir that Dr. Stanton's views have created in theological circles. The attitude thus far disclosed is that of surprise rather than protest. For in no way does Dr. Stanton dispute the truth of the Bible. He declares rather that, in every investigation he has made, he finds the Scriptures confirming the discoveries of science and even explaining many phenomena which science has failed to fathom. His whole study, he says, bears out the accepted belief that there is a spiritual and a physical body; that the soul does not perish, that thought is indestructible, and that when the immortal spirit has left the mortal body it takes its place in the vast universe of heaven, endowed with a higher degree of power than it had on earth.

The most beautiful and extraordinary account of the hearing of angel voices since Bible times is told in the familiar history of Joan of Arc. The actual court record is still preserved in France. One day, in the orchard of a humble farm in Domremy, the peasant girl heard spirit voices calling her by name and telling her that she had been chosen to lead the armies of her country to victory against the English. In response to the spirit message she donned shining armor and became the greatest woman warrior the world has ever known. After the final victory she was captured, and the English, who wished her death for political reasons, put her on trial for heresy and witchcraft. They tried to make her deny that she had heard the spirit voices, or to admit that they were the voices of devils. She insisted to the last that the angel voices were real, and was burned at the stake.

Only a year or two ago the Catholic church formally and officially recorded for all time its belief in the truth about the spirit voices by making Joan of Arc a saint.

Dr. Stanton's positive conclusions do not deny the truth of the story that angel voices were heard by Joan of Arc. His belief is that the voices were real, but that they were directed by means of telepathy to her inner consciousness rather than to her physical ear.

"Many years ago," says Dr. Stanton, "I felt convinced that telepathy had a higher meaning than we mortals knew and I determined to investigate and see how it squared with scriptural teachings. I was amazed to find that science and the scriptures dovetailed and corroborated each other. Incidents in the lives of people to-day paralleled incidents in the days of the prophets. In both, the facts are so indisputable that they must be accepted. When the steamer Carpathian went down in the Straits of Magellan, a telepathic message, probably sent by the captain, was received in a dream by a woman who knew the captain, in Liverpool. An accurate picture of the catastrophe, as it was afterward learned from survivors, was focused upon this woman's mind. The whole picture was projected through space to her by telepathy, and she saw it just as vividly and just as really as if she had been present.

"The visit of the angel Gabriel to Daniel took place while the latter slept. It was a vision projected by telepathy, but none-the-less real. When Luther was in Rome and went up the Scala Santa (The Holy Stairway) on his knees, a voice said to him, 'The just shall live by faith.' Luther received a telepathic message from the other world.

"Science shows that these psychic messages traverse any distance on our globe. The Scriptures show that they also pass between heaven and earth, which means that they can go from one world to another throughout the entire universe."

Stanton makes three positive statements: "In all classes of heavenly beings are found these psychic endowments and activities, and they are able to transmit any mental content, idea or picture, instantaneously from one to another."

"While science exhibits the telepathic message as speeding across the earth, the implications of the Scriptures plainly are

With all her wealth, beauty and family tree, Mrs. Astor was so handicapped by the divorce hoodoo that once more she failed in the fulfillment of her dreams.

She was still fighting a losing battle against prejudice when the world was shocked by the disaster to the Titanic. They were married in June, 1913, at St. Mary's Church in London. Only a few friends of the rector witnessed the ceremony, but if Mrs. Astor had become Lady Ribblesdale in the presence of only a couple of chimney sweeps, it would have settled her status as thoroughly as though the entire Court had attended. Ava Willing, as Lady Ribblesdale, had achieved a position no one in the realm might question.

She and her husband entertained elegantly. They were among the best known visitors to the Continent, as honored in Paris and Rome as they were in London. The hoodoo that stalked Ava Willing's path from girlhood seemed to have been shaken off at last. And then, so suddenly that it seemed the work of a malignant destiny, came the disastrous news that the City Equitable Life Insurance Company had failed, taking down with it the fortunes of many high in society.

First Lady Ribblesdale was shocked to learn that her husband had invested heavily with her fortune in the company, of which he was a director. She had lost, according to report, more than $1,000,000. But a greater shock was to follow.

Auditors made the startling discovery that the balance sheet as of February, 1921, exhibited a false condition of the company. And the sheet showed the signature of Lord Ribblesdale among those who certified to the accuracy of the figures. Directors offered to subscribe $1,500,000 from their own pockets to make good the shortage. All eyes turned upon Lord Ribblesdale, and—the horrifying fact was revealed that he had become so mentally incompetent he had no idea of the import of the statement he had signed.

So the fates of misfortune that have followed the life of Ava Willing dashed Lord Ribblesdale, too, from the pedestal he occupied so long. So Lady Ribblesdale's marriage to a favorite of fortune turned into a union to a doddering old man. Her nine years' fight for social prestige was destroyed in a day. She faces the world to-day reft of much of her former wealth—again a victim of another in that series of strange calamities which fate seems to have ordained for her.

Fighting a Worm that Scuttles Ships

Amazing Rapaciousness of the Newest Marine Pest That Destroys Piers and Wharves, and Even Attacks Ocean Craft and Now Is Threatening to Do More Damage Than Torpedoes and Submarines Did During All the War

One of the "Out of Commission" Fleets of Emergency Wooden Ships Built During the War and Now Threatened with Destruction by the Vicious Marine Borer.

A NEW "monster of the deep" is attacking and sinking American ships.

It is a marine animal—a worm only a few inches long—yet it is proving even more deadly than its huge mechanical cousins, the torpedo and submarine.

Already it has done damage to ships and harbor structures aggregating many millions of dollars and is breeding with such incredible rapidity in American waters that the National Research Council and Engineering Foundation has formed working committees in all the principal ports to combat its ravages.

Though one of the smallest free-swimming creatures that live in the ocean, the ship-worm is probably the only one that has ever successfully attacked a large vessel.

There are weird sea tales of how enormous ocean monsters—sometimes a giant octopus, sometimes an enormous swordfish, even great sea serpents—have dragged helpless vessels under the waves.

Five hundred years ago such marvels were generally believed. Today nobody believes them. Science classes them as myths. In fact, modern science declared that the ocean had never given birth to any living creature that could attack a ship. Such ideas, said science, were absurd.

—Until the ship-worm came along.

And now the ship-worm—a real sea serpent—the only dangerous sea serpent despite its tiny size, is ravaging shipping.

This Photograph Shows Exactly What Happened to the Municipal Wharf and Dockmaster's Office at Benicia, Cal., When Attacked by the Boring Worm.

Photograph of Damaged Pile Taken from the Richmond, Cal., Municipal Wharf Showing Perforations Made by the Marine Pests.

Actual Photograph (Enlarged Three Times Life Size) of Teredo, Showing the Blunt Head with Which Holes Are Drilled Through the Stout Sides of Wooden Ships.

as it has never been ravaged before except in time of war.

The ship-worm is a member of the "marine borer" family. The branch of the family that has invaded American waters is called the teredo. It grows from two inches to three feet in length. Usually it is about three to six inches. It has a long, soft body, a head armed with rasplike teeth that cut wood like a couple of circular saws. Its tail is equipped with fins.

It swims freely, and at the first opportunity attaches itself by the head to any wood—the hull of a wooden ship or the piling of harbor structures—that is not protected by steel, concrete, or other armor.

Then it burrows in, apparently for the purpose of making itself a home, and lives in the hole it has made, with the head toward the inside of the piling and the tail sticking out through the "doorway."

The outer surface of the body secretes a lime-like substance which forms a shell, lining the walls of the hole. The tail is equipped with two siphons, and a stream of water is continually siphoned through the worm's body. The head with its rasplike teeth continually gnaws into the wood, while the fine sawdust passes out with the water through the animal's body and is siphoned away.

The borers do not appear singly. They attack the hull of a ship in enormous numbers. There may be as many as 100,000 of them in a single heavy plank, and they completely riddle a piece of timber 20 inches thick in less than six months.

The young originate from eggs hatched in the body of the female and reach unbelievable numbers. There may be as many as 50,000 females in a single piece of timber, and each female may give birth to 1,000,000 live young ship-worms. They begin boring at a very early age, and live for several months.

The teredo ship-worms made their first American appearance in San Francisco Bay, where they have already destroyed ships and have also caused the destruction of railroad, industrial and marine harbor structures, by cutting away the piling, to the extent of nearly $20,000,000.

They have completely ruined the Alameda mole piling, which only lasted about twenty months after its completion. Some of the piling of various structures in the Golden Gate only lasted six months. At Oleum, California, they so weakened the piling of the dock that it collapsed and fell into the bay, taking several loaded freight trains with it. The municipal wharf and offices at Benicia collapsed completely and went into deep water, while a big ferry ship was so riddled by the ship-worms that it too went to pieces.

In a report just made by Alfred D. Flinn, secretary of the Engineering Foundation, which is affiliated with the three big American engineering societies, he says:

"What seems to be the true teredo nautilus has been found in New Jersey waters. If it follows the course it has pursued at San Francisco, there is a possibility of its appearance in New York and other congested harbors all along the Atlantic coast. This species has also been found at Bayside, Long Island, and other marine borers are now destructive in southern Louisiana."

These marine borers occur with the greatest frequency in warmer seas, but on the Atlantic coast they have already come as far north as Maine, and on the Pacific coast as far as Seattle and Alaska. On the Atlantic coast their attacks up to now have been of prime importance south of Delaware Bay.

Extermination of the ship-worm is believed to be impossible, but it is expected

It was discovered in San Francisco that creosoting, if properly done, was fairly effective. But it was also shown that even a very small break or abrasion occurred in the coating, the worms soon found it and riddled the timber.

In some places an effort has been made to kill the borers by the millions by putting chlorine in the water. This proved ineffective because the tide carried the poison away before it could complete its work.

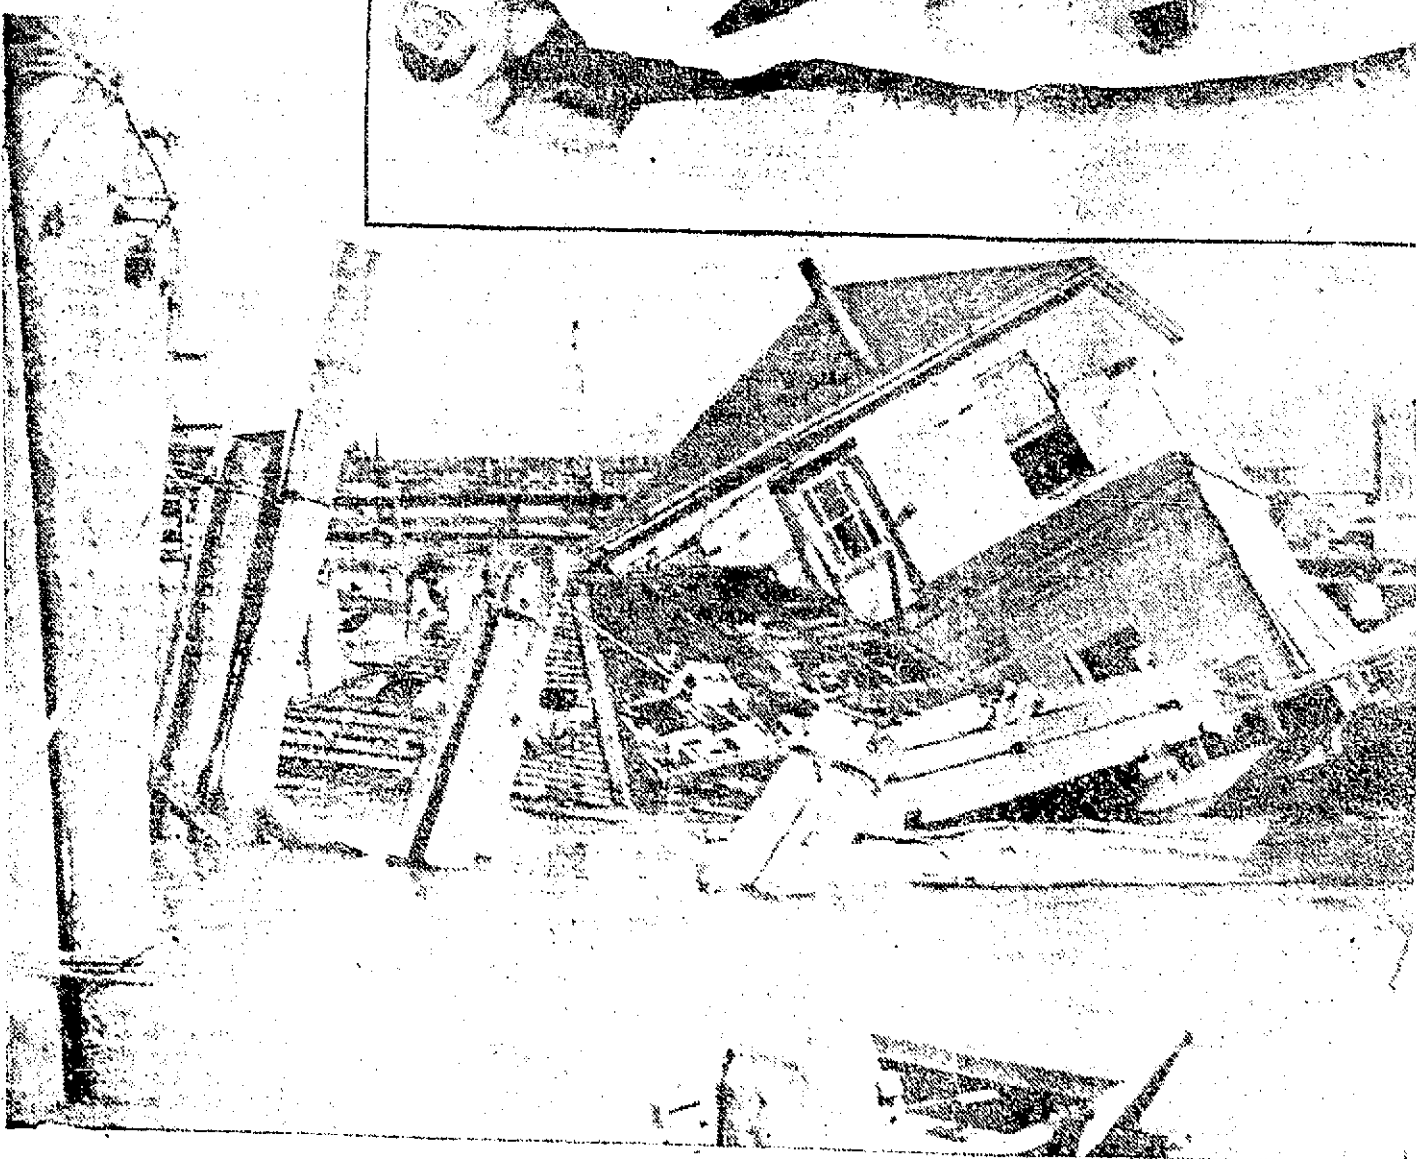

In connection with the plans now under way for a general war on the ship-worm, the combined engineering societies of America have just issued a statement disclosing successful methods of fighting the ship-worm, and announcing the appointment of a committee of investigation by the National Research Council.

And so it comes about to-day that the most powerful forces of American engineering and chemical science are being marshaled to wage warfare on a worm.

These combined forces do not expect to exterminate the marine pest, but they confidently hope to reduce its ravages and to effect enormous savings for the wooden shipping and harbor interests of the entire nation.

The first of the last, so to speak. These soldiers on the train met Cambrai being the first to arrive in America since the order recalling all U. S. troops from Germany. The Cambrai also brought back the last of the American dead coming from France.
